By RON COLLISTER
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—The secrets of 20 years of security scandals almost fell into the lap of Parliament by accident in a furious debate on the Spencer spy-suspect case Friday.

Justice Minister Lucien Cardin tore into Tory leader John Diefenbaker over his handling, as prime minister, of the "Monsieur case".

Mr. Cardin, it is speculated here, meant the Munsinger case.

Oiga Munsinger, according to rumors that have swirled around the capital for several years, was hustled out of Canada to East Germany after an affair with a Tory cabinet minister.

Miss Munsinger, the story goes, was a clerk at a Communist embassy.

She was deported after some compromising pictures, involving her and the minister, came to light.

The case was allowed to die because only sex, and not security, was involved.

While the Liberals indicate they are sitting on security secrets of the Tory era, the Tories indicate they have enough on the Liberals, during their pre-1957 period of power.

In the Commons, Tory leader Diefenbaker said if there was to be a full and complete investigation of security in Canada, it should go back to 1944.

"Yes, I want to cover that period," he said. "I want to see it fully investigated."

"The Prime Minister laughs, but I want to see that we make available to a commission behind closed doors the revelations that have found their way to Washington and have been placed in evidence there in that body on security."

What was Mr. Diefenbaker driving at?

He may have been referring to the pre-1957 Liberal government's actions in the case of Herbert Norman, the Canadian diplomat who fell to his death in Cairo.

Mr. Norman's name had been dragged into hearings before

Death Toll 124 In BOAC Jet

GOTEMBA, Japan (AP)—A British Overseas Airways Boeing 707 jetliner slammed into the slopes below Mount Fuji today, killing all 124 aboard the plane, Japanese military sources said.

A Japanese self defense force training school located six miles from the crash site said there were no survivors.

The jetliner left Tokyo with 113 passengers and a crew of 11 bound for Hong Kong and on to London. BOAC officials in Tokyo said.

The BOAC officials, however, declined to confirm that it was their plane that was down.

RIPPED CLOTHING

Police working up the steep slopes about six miles below the crater of the nearby sacred mountain—70 miles southwest of Tokyo—said they found ripped clothing bearing the BOAC insignia.

The wreckage was still burning more than two hours after the crash.

Aerial views showed the main wreckage lying several hundred yards below the top of a rounded, rolling ridge line.

Recognition For Ghana

By REUTERS

Britain and the United States recognized Friday the new regime in Ghana, which was facing growing hostility from a group of African states backing deposed President Kwame Nkrumah.

London and Washington announcements of recognition brought to 14 the number of states which have recognized the military leaders who overthrew Nkrumah eight days ago. Ghana is a former British colony.

Accra, meanwhile, sent a sharp protest to Guinea, staunchest of Nkrumah's allies, claiming the Ghanaian embassy staff in the capital, Conakry, had been placed under house arrest.

Two Injured

A Duncan resident and his wife were taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital after their car smashed into a utility pole in Victoria at 1:30 a.m. today. Their names have not been released.

Two Men Swap Cancer Tissue

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Cancerous tissue from two men threatened with early death by a rare bone malignancy was traded Friday. The exchange, they hoped, might extend their lives.

Tissue from the right lung of Robert F. Allen, 38, and from the left collarbone area of Harry T. Griffith, 63, was imbedded in each other's thigh.

The experimental surgery, performed by Dr. Sigmund H. Nadler at Roswell Park Memorial Institute, was completed in less than two hours.

CP Jet Crash Kills 64

TOKYO (CP-AP)—A Canadian Pacific Airlines jetliner groping for a landing in fog hit the approach lights at Tokyo's International Airport Friday night and smashed down in flames, killing 64 persons, many of them Canadian residents.

The eight survivors, three of them with Canadian addresses, were reported out of danger early today.

At least 21 Canadian residents were listed aboard the flight and most of them were presumed killed.

CPA officials said the plane carried 62 passengers, nine crew members and an off-duty stewardess.

The crew was among those confirmed killed. So was the off-duty stewardess, identified as Rebecca Yue-chien Chao of Hong Kong.

Ripping out 15 of the beacon towers jutting out of Tokyo bay on the approach to the runway, the giant DC-8 hit a breakwater wall at the edge of the runway and then tore down the runway, scattering wreckage for nearly a mile before coming to a halt.

VANCOUVER PILOT

The $4,000,000, four-engine plane, bound from Hong Kong for Vancouver and South America, was under the command of Capt. Cecil N. McNeal, 57, of Vancouver.

Known to have survived are Freda Yeake, 30, of Edmonton and Vancouver; Bernard James Redlake, 23, Kimberley, B.C.; and Mrs. Sau Jen Chung, whose Canadian address was not immediately known.

Miss Yeake, an Air Canada sales agent, was taken to hospital with head, arm and leg injuries. Although seriously hurt, she was conscious.

The dead crew members, in addition to McNeal, were first officer C. F. K. (Kel) Mews, Continued on Page 5

LBJ's Life Threatened

By NORMAN RUNNION
United Press International

It was shortly after 8 a.m. Friday that the Washington-bound train bearing Oswald H. Pick, 27, of Clinton, N.J., rolled into Philadelphia's 30th Street station.

Waiting for Pick on the station platform were some 60 agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, which two and one-half years ago had become chillingly familiar with a 24-year-old man named Lee Harvey Oswald.

The charge against Pick: threatening to assassinate President Lyndon B. Johnson.

FRENZY

Behind the arrest lay two frenzied hours of drama that began with a phone call to FBI headquarters in Washington at 5:45 a.m. EST.

The call came from New York. The voice on the other end said he was heading to Washington to assassinate a "high government official." Then he hung up.

As an FBI agent said later in New York: "We launched an immediate and intensive investigation."

The next call came 45 minutes later—at 6 a.m. EST. This

Queer Quirk of Fate Kills Victoria Woman

By DOROTHY WROTONSKI

One of Victoria's most dynamic personalities, Mrs. H. C. MacDonald lost her life in the shocking CPA air crash at fog-bound Tokyo airport Friday.

Only by a queer quirk of fate was Norma MacDonald on the fateful plane.

On a trip, buying for her newly established arts and crafts centre in the remodelled Century Inn, Mrs. MacDonald had been in London, Moscow, Peking and Hong Kong.

Her plans were to go to Korea from Hong Kong. But her visa hadn't come through to Hong Kong as she had expected.

A cable to her sister, Miss Frances Jordan, told of her sudden change of plans and that she would be arriving home Friday afternoon instead of next Tuesday.

Norma MacDonald became widely known in Victoria during her 20 years of living here. She purchased the Oak Bay Beach Hotel from the late Maj. William Merston in 1946 and with members of her family operated the hotel until selling it three years ago.

It was during this time she became president of the International Hotel Association and in this capacity circled the globe several times.

What is not so well known about Norma MacDonald is her liberal sponsoring of the arts. She was a benefactor helping many young people on their way.

Norma married H. C. MacDonald and came from Winnipeg to Vancouver where her husband was in real estate. They moved to Seattle where they started in the hotel business. Mr. MacDonald died there.

Firing Inquiry Promised

Pearson Calls Spy Suspect

By RON COLLISTER

OTTAWA—Prime Minister Pearson Friday night phoned an alleged spy and staged a historic retreat on a judicial inquiry into his dismissal from the civil service.

Justice Minister Cardin sat bowed and dejected as Mr. Pearson overruled his earlier refusal to allow an inquiry in the case of spy-suspect Victor Spencer.

Mr. Pearson's statement said the inquiry, to be conducted in camera by a judge, probably in Vancouver, would deal with the question of "national and international security."

MUCH WIDER

Spencer, 57, was fired from his job in the Vancouver post office, without pension, for his part in a case that saw the expulsion of two Soviet diplomats last year.

A spokesman for Mr. Pearson said the judge would not examine the security aspects of the case.

However, there are already rumours that the Opposition will push for a much wider inquiry.

MORE FIREWORKS

Former Tory justice minister David Fulton said an inquiry should establish if there was enough evidence to fire Spencer.

"How can the inquiry avoid taking that question into consideration?" he asked.

More fireworks are expected when the debate on the justice estimates resumes Monday March 7.

The government is already feeling the pinch of a financial crisis because, from March 7, it has had no authority for spending and is trying to pay bills out of carryover money.

"REAL TROUBLE"

Already, a few casual workers are not getting paid. "From Monday night, we will be in real trouble," said government House leader George McRae.

Earlier, in the Commons, Mr. Pearson announced that he would phone Spencer in Vancouver and verify a telegram he had sent to New Democrat David Lewis asking for an inquiry into his case.

Mr. Pearson invited Mr. Lewis to monitor the call, but Mr. Lewis declined.

LAWYERS LISTEN

The call lasted two and a half minutes, from the official residence at 24 Sussex Drive to a Vancouver law office, where Spencer was located.

Mr. Pearson was alone. With Spencer was his lawyer, Harry Continued on Page 2

Favreau Withdraws Perjury Charge Against Neilsen

By FRASER KELLY
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Privy council president Guy Favreau Friday accused Tory Erik Nielsen of "lying under oath" during the Dorion enquiry.

Under terrific pressure from Mr. Nielsen and the rest of the Opposition, the beleaguered former justice minister withdrew his words an hour later—but not until he was faced with backing them up or losing his seat.

The House tottered on the edge of complete chaos when the two great antagonists in the famous Dorion-Rivard affair looked horns in a bitter debate.

"UNEQUIVOCALLY"

At the end Mr. Favreau, who accused Mr. Nielsen of twice giving false evidence to Chief Justice Dorian, withdrew all his words "unequivocally."

The matter arose during a sharp exchange during the debate on the estimated expenditures of the justice department.

Mr. Nielsen interjected some reference to the Dorion probe—convened by the government to investigate allegations of bribery designed to get bail for narcotics king Lucien Rivard.

STUNG

Obviously stung by the mention of Rivard, Mr. Favreau jumped to his feet and stated Mr. Nielsen had "on two occasions said things that did not represent the truth."

Mr. Nielsen said Mr. Favreau had accused him of perjury and asked the former justice minister to withdraw his statement.

Mr. Favreau refused, and repeated his accusation. He suggested Mr. Nielsen turn the whole matter over to the Commons committee on privileges and elections.

RISK SEAT

Mr. Nielsen said the rules demanded that Mr. Favreau back up his statement or risk losing his seat. He was joined by several Conservative and New Democrat members.

Cardin Bucks Boss on Crime Probe

By FRASER KELLY

OTTAWA—Justice Minister Lucien Cardin told the Commons yesterday that a royal commission "is not the answer" to fighting organized crime in Canada.

His rejection of a super crime probe came just one day after prime minister indicated in the Commons the government was prepared to recommend to the provinces that one be set up.

Now if Prime Minister Pearson gives in to demands of Quebec Justice Minister Claude Wagner for a royal commission on crime it will be over the advice of his own federal justice minister.

Mr. Cardin made his statement in the middle of a detailed account of steps the government is taking to greatly stiffen bankruptcy laws and investigation.

"The problem of crime in Canada is so serious and difficult that it is not time for panic. It is not time to run in two or three directions at the same time."

Perhaps the appointment of a royal commission would be one method to deal with it.

"The government has stated it will look into this matter, but my feeling is that this is not the time for panic."

"I think the attorneys general individually and collectively with the assistance of the federal government, are the people most knowledgeable and have the best position to deal with this great problem."

The hon. gentlemen have asked for a royal commission, but I feel this is not the answer," he said.

Mr. Cardin described the current bankruptcy act as "very complicated, awkward and obsolete." Then he listed nine steps the government is taking to tighten it up.

Among these are revisions to greatly strengthen the powers of the superintendent of bankruptcy, who will have the power to call witnesses, obtain search warrants and seize documents.

Curbs Huddle Raising Hopes

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP)—Canada-United States discussions about American curbs on direct investment abroad featured high-level consultations Friday. They conclude today.

The talks have been excellent to date, giving rise to hopes of being most useful, it was indicated privately.

Canada has also presented what is described as strong exception to the extra-territorial aspect of U.S. securities regulations being applied against certain Canadian firms whose issues involuntarily become the property of American investors.

The U.S. still is mulling over the Canadian case, it is understood. The meeting launched Friday is the 10th session of the joint committee on economics and trade.

After an international economics review, delegations turned to bilateral economic matters which included the auto production agreement, the curbs on direct investment and various specific commodities.

Canadian suggestions also were made in connection with the American policy of Canadian subsidiaries' complying with U.S. restrictions of the Trading With the Enemy Act. This has hampered past opportunities to sell to Communist nations items made in Canada.

Rusk Bosses U.S. Abroad

WASHINGTON (LAT)—President Johnson has authorized Secretary of State Dean Rusk to assume direct supervision over the conduct of nearly all overseas operations of the U.S. government except those dealing with military activities.

In essence, Mr. Johnson vested Rusk with a presidential function of directing and co-ordinating most of the programs being carried out abroad by departments and agencies.

'Herring' Haunts Jurors

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The Mosler murder trial jury expressed interest Friday in Fred Weisel, the man to whom the defence tried to shift suspicion in the killing of multi-millionaire Jacques Mosler.

At the jury's request, the testimony of Joseph Kasper, a trial witness who gave Weisel an alibi for the time of Mosler's death, was re-read to the 12 men deliberating the fate of Candace Mosler and her nephew, Melvin Lane Powers.

Weisel, bloody and beaten, wandered into a city sewage treatment plant early in the morning of June 30, 1964, six miles from the apartment house where Mosler was bludgeoned and stabbed to death.

'RED HERRING'

The defence, in an attempt to raise a reasonable doubt Powers was the killer, advanced Weisel as a hypothetical suspect.

The prosecution described Weisel as a "red herring" and said the defence was using one of the oldest of techniques—"placing everybody on trial but the defendants."

And Kasper was brought in as a state rebuttal witness to testify Weisel entered the plant where he worked at 1:30 a.m., some 15 minutes before the screams of the dying Mosler awakened neighbors.

BEATEN UP

Weisel remained there, Kasper said, at least an hour.

The jury also heard again the testimony of a policeman that he was called to the plant at 2:30 a.m. and Weisel told him he was beaten up in a fight among homosexuals.

Weisel, a Miami interior decorator, was subpoenaed by the defence but process servers said they were told he now is out of the country.

State Attorney Richard Gerstein told the jury in his closing statement Thursday Mrs. Mosler masterminded and Powers committed the "brutal, unwarranted murder" and the motives were "greed, avarice, lust and money."

Blizzard-proofed Winnipeg police defy storm

Fierce Blizzard Cripples Wide Manitoba Area

WINNIPEG (CP)—A savage blizzard paralyzed vast areas of Manitoba and northwestern Ontario Friday.

The storm's blows will continue today and probably most of Sunday in a 100,000-square-mile area of Canada stretching from west of Winnipeg to east of the Lakehead.

Moving northward from Minnesota and the Dakotas, the blizzard made a ghost city of Winnipeg—its most populous target—and locked in scores of rural communities with high drifts.

CANT SEE

Winds that whirled the snow gusts to 70 miles an hour, reducing visibility to zero.

A number of children were reported snowbound but safe in a rural school near Emerson, 70 miles south of Winnipeg.

No estimate was possible of the number of motorists unaccounted for. Most found emergency shelter.

A weekend of major inconvenience, if not outright hardship, confronted tens of thousands although no loss of life directly attributed to the storm had been reported.

Many households were short of food. Discussions were being held here on whether supermarkets should be allowed to open Sunday, assuming the weather has settled enough by then.

The only small consolation was that temperatures were well above zero, around the 18-degree mark.

BUSES STOP

Metropolitan Winnipeg's 500,000 population made a game morning start toward normalcy—but all efforts had sputtered out by noon.

At 11 a.m. the metro transit system pulled its last buses off the job.

Long before that people who had managed to reach work were advised to head home if their job allowed them, and to stay put if they hadn't left.

The Greater Winnipeg Salvage Council described the storm as "the most serious and most dangerous blizzard any of us has experienced."

Education Minister George Johnson ordered all southern Manitoba public schools closed for the day.

Money Move Foiled

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons wound up a hectic Friday at its usual adjournment hour of 6 p.m., leaving the government facing a money crisis and a motion concerning Justice Minister Cardin.

A last-ditch attempt to extend the sitting to midnight to clean up remaining estimates was blocked by the Conservatives.

The quiet fade-out Friday was in contrast to overtime sittings earlier in the week as the government staged a concerted drive to avoid having an empty purse.

Casual employees and some persons filling service contracts are expected to be the first to be affected—probably this weekend—by the fact the government has not had any money approved for March spending. But a really serious problem in meeting government payrolls is not expected unless the situation remains stalemate into the middle of next week.

PORT ARTHUR — Ronald MacDonald, Lakehead University's alleged impostor, was remanded to April 7 on charges of uttering forged documents. MacDonald did not enter a plea on the three charges. He is free on $500 bail.

Budget Surpasses B.C.'s

Alberta Spending to Zoom

EDMONTON (CP)—A record budget of nearly $882,000,000 was brought down Friday night in the Alberta legislature, about $188,000,000 larger than last year and equal to all the money the province spent in its first 63 years of existence.

Provincial Treasurer A. O. Aalborg called it "a fabulous budget for a fabulous province."

Budget for booming B.C. — more populous than Alberta — was $687,382,000.

EDUCATION

It makes education the largest expense and gives grants to municipalities equal to a third of what the province expects to receive from oil and gas royalties.

Although Alberta's budget surpluses are almost legendary—the last time the province had a deficit on its operating account was in 1936—Mr. Aalborg estimated a deficit of $68,837,541.

In contrast to former years, when oil and gas revenues soared above estimates any converted anticipated deficits to surpluses, Mr. Aalborg said he expects the deficit to be genuine this time.

But it will be financed without tax increases or new borrowings. Money will come from the province's reserves, expected to be about $804,000,000 when the current fiscal year ends March 31.

Mr. Aalborg said a new homeowner tax discount will cost the province $15,000,000 in the new fiscal year.

The plan, in which taxpayers living in their own homes will receive a $50 discount on their property taxes starting April 1, was announced recently by Premier Manning.

ROYALTIES

The budget also includes municipal assistance grants of $22,800,000, about $5,700,000 more than last year, to bring them up to 33.3 per cent of estimated petroleum royalties of $70,000,000.

Total revenues are estimated at $813,138,370, nearly 25 per cent greater than last year. Total expenditures are expected to reach $881,975,911, compared with last year's estimated spending of $693,782,982.

The major source of revenue will be from natural resources, mainly oil and gas. This is expected to total $254,937,500, the largest amount ever estimated, and $68,700,000 more than last year's estimated resource revenue.

Police Haul Away Student Protesters

OTTAWA (Special)—About 60 soaked and cold students were carried, shaved and dumped into paddy wagons Friday after they sat in front of moving cars to protest American bombings in Viet Nam.

University students from Ottawa, Montreal, Kingston and Toronto used civil rights tactics in their sit-in under the Peace Tower.

Most of them now face charges of disorderly conduct.

LBJ Threatened

Then, in a twist that must have made the FBI blink with hope, he went on to say just how he was coming to do the deed and what he looked like.

He said he was wanted for bank robbery, that he was tired of running from the FBI and that he had a .25 automatic pistol.

While agents monitoring the call took notes, he gave this description: tall and slender, weight 175 pounds, age 27 years.

He would be on the 6:30 train from New York to Washington and he would be easy to identify. His hat would have its brim turned up.

As it turned out, his only accurate statements were the train, his age and his description. The FBI swung into action.

NEW YORK
The agency's New York office was notified, along with New York police. By then the 6:30 train to Washington—the morning Congressional—was getting ready to pull out of New York's Pennsylvania station.

But it didn't leave before some FBI men got aboard.

Other agents started for Philadelphia's 30th Street station, where the train was due at 8:10 a.m. on the Congressional. FBI agents began going through the train's 10 cars.

There were approximately 400 people aboard. The agents had to find one. In the dining car was a man who looked about 27 and fitted the descriptions.

But the FBI agents were satisfied he was their man.

After Pick had been taken to the FBI office in Philadelphia, Dean said, he admitted making the early morning telephone calls and the threats. The agent said Pick also signed a statement.

Pick gave his address as Clifton, N.J., and said he was divorced. When arrested, he had $170.

In the past three or four years, said a half-sister, he had been a patient at a mental institution in Morris Plains, N.J.

Names in the News

Cleanliness Next To Absence

LONDON—Because Christina Miles, 18, followed a home-taught lesson of always wiping her cutlery at mealtime with a serviette, she is a ward of the children's authority at Surbiton.

Three magistrates in a juvenile court have rejected an appeal by Mrs. Doreen Miles, Christina's mother, to free the child. Hearing is set for March 16.

Christina has been wiping her cutlery at school for three years. Last year the school decided it was threatening discipline and ordered her to stop.

With "principles" involved on both sides, Christina was kept out of school for eight months while her mother and the headmaster disputed the point.

Mother and daughter were brought to court, and when Mrs. Miles refused to give an undertaking that Christina would return to school, the magistrate ordered her into the "care of a fit person" for two weeks.

Moments after court adjourned Mrs. Miles backed down, but the court refused to change its order.

DETROIT — Carol Greese's ambition is to marry a barber, Carol, 21, is a barber. Her mother is a barber. So are a sister, her father, a brother, an aunt, two uncles and two cousins. Her grandfathers were barbers. Carol's sister Margaret, 20, works in a barber shop and is getting married next month—to a barber. Carol has a boy friend. And, of course, he's a barber who "operates a shop right across from home."

PRINCE GEORGE — Lawrence Edward Jackson, 24, was committed for trial on a capital murder charge here. Jackson was charged with the death of Jewelry store operator Mrs. Eileen Hall, 74, found dead in her living quarters at the rear of the store Jan. 24.

HALIFAX—A man who said he lost his memory here and woke up 27 days later in Vancouver was sentenced to five months in jail for car theft. Ian Lyall Richards, 30, a former naval engineer, had pleaded not guilty and said he had lost his memory Dec. 3 when he rented the car.

HOLLYWOOD—Neil Paakey, actor Mickey Rooney's mother, died of an apparent heart attack in her home at nearby Sherman Oaks.

ANCHORAGE, Alaska—Three-year-old Keith Hibbick is being treated for a skull fracture he received in a run-in with a moose. Police said the animal attacked while the boy, a younger sister and his mother, Mrs. Charles Hibbick, were getting into a car near Homer, Alaska.

QUEBEC — Armand Roy, former mayor of St. Georges West, Que., was convicted of having conspired in 1961 to set fire to a logging camp he owned on the Ploche River in Laurentides National Park.

VANCOUVER—James D. Brennan, alias Jayden Dymess, alias Belled as a Boss, an Edmonton area Indian credited with saving six lives in a fire here last month, was released on his own recognizance on a charge of assaulting a liquor vendor.

Studebaker Calls Quits

DETROIT (AP)—Studebaker, but the volume was not enough to enable the Studebaker auto division to be near the break-even point.

The firm forecast Feb. 24 that its operating income would rise 30 per cent this year with anticipated earnings of $13,500,000, up from the $10,500,000 earned in 1965.

Byers A. Burlingame, president of Studebaker Corp., announced that the firm, which had been building autos since 1902, had tossed in the sponge for its automotive division based in Hamilton.

"While I sincerely regret the necessity of discontinuing Studebaker cars, the irreversible losses being incurred permit no other course," he said.

Studebaker's automotive fortunes had gone steadily downhill from the golden days of 1950 when it sold a company high of 368,229 cars.

In December, 1963, the firm made a major move in an effort to save its automotive division as it transferred the car-building setup from South Bend, Ind., to Hamilton.

Sales slipped to about 19,000 cars last year, with 11,000 of those sold in the United States.

Canada Straining at Capacity

By HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

Canada's current trouble is that since last summer the country has been operating dangerously near the limits of its capacity, says the Bank of Nova Scotia, in its latest monthly review.

As a result, noticeable pressures of physical and financial types have been built up.

These include increased demands for credit, tightening of the money conditions, increased interest rates, higher demand for imports and not enough capital with which to pay for them.

MANPOWER

The physical ills are centred around the manpower shortages which have in turn put upward pressures on costs and prices.

UBC Wins Junior Basketball Talent Too Much for Victoria

It Was Rugged Under Those Baskets

Traffic gets heavy under basket but UBC's Dave Rice is equal to it. Here Rice comes up with rebound despite efforts of Chinooks' Barney Spaven (44).

Brian Brumwell and Ken Jackson (34). Rice scored 14 points in Jayvees' 58-48 victory. It was finale of tournament.—(William E. John)

By JIM TAYLOR

UBC Jayvees took the Canadian junior men's basketball championship away from the Victoria Chinooks Friday night, and despite the excitement it was like watching an old movie.

This time the score was 58-48, but that was the only real difference between this one and the last four times the clubs have met. Otherwise, Norm Watt's Jayvees stuck to the pattern they play so well.

BIG CROWD

Playing before a sellout crowd of 1,500, they went ahead early, put on the pressure every time they scored, then set back and forced Chinooks to come to them. They can do it, because they are loaded with talent.

Chinooks stayed with them for 10 minutes last night and were up, 9-8. Then Brian Brumwell missed a layup that would have built the lead to three points. Jayvees came down with the ball, and boom.

NO REPLY

Sam Vandermeulen, Dave Rice, Ken Kern, Bob Molinski and Vandermeulen scored 10 points without a reply. Jayvees had a nine point lead, and that was that.

They came out of the half leading, 32-22, and Chinooks played them dead even in the second half. But you simply cannot spot this team any kind of a lead. There is simply too much balance.

ALL STARS

Vandermeulen and Kern made the tournament all-star team, along with Ron Bowker and Ken Jackson of Chinooks and Wayne Haldane, the little outside shooter from Mt. Royal Junior College of Calgary. All were unanimous choices, and the four who played last night showed why.

Bowker and Jackson, last members of the original Chinook team, scored 18 and 15 points, respectively, in their last games as players. Vandermeulen got 19 and simply destroyed Chinooks on the boards. Kern, still hobbling on a bad ankle, scored 11.

Chinooks, who shot 55 per cent in beating the Cougars Thursday, could do no better than 34 per cent last night. They got the shots all right—55 of them—but you only get so many misses against the Jayvees before you get killed.

When it was over, Canadian Amateur Basketball Association president Luke Moyle of Vancouver called the tournament "the greatest junior competition ever."

GOOD GATES

Financially, it seems assured of success, and the response here would seem to lend support to an idea that Victoria could be the host of the Dominion final on alternate years with an eastern city.

No matter where the competition is held next season, the Jayvees should be a strong contender to keep their national title. Of the 10 players last night, Watt loses only two—Bob Molinski and Al Quinn—unless the senior Thunderbirds reach down for recruits.

TEN STARS

"I haven't really got what you'd call a starting five," Watt said. "I've just got 10 guys who play well."

It was perhaps the greatest accolade of all for the best junior team in Canadian basketball.

Victoria Chinooks—Ron Bowker 18, Brian Brumwell 15, Wayne Haldane 11, Ken Kern 11, Dave Rice 14, Al Quinn 10, Total—48.

Trophies for All

Trophies came in bunches for UBC Jayvees last night. Here Canadian Amateur Basketball Association president Luke Moyle presents UBC's

Bob Molinski with one of individual trophies received by each Jayvee as coach Norm Watt applauds in background.—(William E. John)

Esquimalt Tramples Vikings Army Upsets Navy, 6-3

Esquimalt Pontiacs kicked University of Victoria Vikings in the complacency last night by beating the Vikings, 6-3, in final game of the season at the Esquimalt Sports Centre.

The Vikings won the league championship (because of Army's late arrival in the autumn, the standings are unbalanced) but looked anything but champs as Esquimalt got two goals from Doug Couch in the first six minutes.

In the other game last night, Army defeated second-place Navy, 6-3.

Mick Brown led the Army with three goals as the soldiers held the play throughout and fired 40 shots at Navy goalie Ray Sinclair.

Leafs Take 8-1 Trimming

Canucks Zero In on Holland

VANCOUVER — Vancouver Canucks were just too much for rookie goaltender Gary Holland, with or without his face mask here Friday night.

Holland and his Victoria Maple Leaf mates were down, 4-0, after the first period of their Western Hockey League game so Holland decided to go the rest of the route without the face covering that has become popular in the last few years with goalies.

The switch didn't help — Canucks went on to score four more goals for an 8-1 victory. The seven-goal difference equaled the worst beating Leafs had taken all season. They lost 10-3, to the same Canucks last Jan. 23 with the peripatetic Al Muller in goal.

Canucks, really buzzing, kept pouring in on Holland, playing his sixth pro game since leaving Flin Flon Bombers junior team.

Leafs' leading point-getter scored three goals and assisted on two more. He now has 82 points for the season, including 31 goals, eight more than Cliff Schmalz of Portland.

Phil Maloney, Dunc McCallum, Brian Hextall, Bruce Carmichael and Bob McCusker scored the other Vancouver goals.

Fred Hucul scored for Victoria, which brought the score to 4-1 at one stage of the second period.

It is expected that Holland will be back between the pipes tonight when Victoria plays

Seattle Totems in Victoria's Memorial Arena.

Billy McNeill was Holland's chief tormentor. The WHL's leading point-getter scored three goals and assisted on two more. He now has 82 points for the season, including 31 goals, eight more than Cliff Schmalz of Portland.

Seals Defeat Baltimore, 4-2

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Wings Mike Harvey and George Swarbrick each scored twice to lead San Francisco Seals to a 4-2 victory over the Baltimore Clippers Friday night in an interlocking hockey game.

The victory, the third in 11 tries for San Francisco of the Western Hockey League against American League opponents, snapped a four-game losing streak for the Seals.

The Clippers took a 1-0 lead at 2:41 in the first period on Doug Harvey's screened slap shot, but Swarbrick's first at 11:00 tied the game.

Mike Harvey's first goal for the Seals gave San Francisco the lead at 10:26 of the second period, but 31 seconds later Bill Knibbs again tied the match.

In the final period, Swarbrick scored a tap-in at 6:47 and Doug Harvey's second goal with 33 seconds left in the game was shot into an untended net.

The Seals, last in the WHL, moved to within one point of fifth-place Los Angeles. They remain 11 points behind fourth-place Seattle and a playoff berth.

Jim Norris' Two Sons In Firm

CHICAGO (AP)—Management of Chicago Black Hawks will be continued by the club's board of directors with the family of the late James D. Norris maintaining his financial interest.

This was announced by Arthur Wirtz, partner of Norris, 59, who died last Friday from a heart condition.

The Hawk board of directors includes Wirtz and his two sons, Michael and William.

Wirtz also said the Chicago Stadium Corp. has a specific buyer for its St. Louis Arena, clearing the way for a National Hockey League entry there.

The buyer was not identified. St. Louis was one of six cities granted a franchise for the 1967-68 season in expansion of the present six-club NHL. April 5 was set for selection of a group to take the franchise.

Lacrosse Swap?

Goalkeeper swap, Vancouver's Norm Nestman (top) for Victoria's Skip Chapman is at talking stage in inter-city Lacrosse League. Vancouver coach Bobby Marsh said last night. Both live on mainland, where Chapman is not interested in staying with Vancouver club. Shamrocks had no comment.

Next tripehead is Tuesday at Memorial Arena beginning at 7 p.m.

Canadian Ski Team Flashes in Nationals

ROSSLAND, B.C. (CP)—Running under ideal conditions on their home mountain, members of Canada's national team made a clean sweep of the downhill races at the Canadian Alpine ski championships here Friday.

Scott Henderson led four fellow-members of the national A team to victory in the men's downhill and Rossland's Nancy Greene, a member of the women's A team, edged out two Americans to win the women's downhill race.

Miss Greene flashed down the treacherous two-mile granite mountain course in 2:07.3. Finishing a close second with 2:07.7 was Suzanne Caffee of the Mammoth Ski Club at Mammoth Lake, Calif.

Miss Caffee's teammate, Joan Hannah, was nearly a full second behind, finishing in 2:08.6. Karen Dokke of Vancouver was fourth with 2:09.3.

Henderson, of Banff, Alta., was only one-tenth of a second ahead of Peter Duncan of Mt. Tremblant, Que., in winning the men's downhill. Henderson's time over a longer 2 1/2-mile course was 2:27.8 and Duncan's 2:27.9.

Keith Shepherd of Revelstoke, B.C., Gerry Rhinall of Kimberley, B.C., and Ron Hebron of Vancouver, all members of the national A team, finished third, fourth and fifth respectively with times of 2:28.5, 2:29.6 and 2:29.7.

Miss Greene holds a tremendous advantage heading into today's slalom race on neighboring Red Mountain.

The downhill race is one of her weaker events, but she is classed as one of the world's top three in the slalom.

Results of the downhill and the slalom will count for the combined title.

Next Stop, Sorel

From CP, UPI

Cassius Clay and Ernie Terrell would like to fight for the world heavyweight boxing championship, but they can find a town that will let them.

After being turned out of Chicago, the promoters of the scheduled March 20 bout went to Montreal but were refused the use of Montreal Forum.

Then they tried Verdun, P.Q., but the Verdun city council would not accept the fight.

Last night they were in Sorel, 40 miles northeast of Montreal, where Gerald Pelletier, manager of the community-owned Sorel

Coliseum, made a surprise bid to stage the bout.

He talked to Loren Cassina, representative of All-Canada Sports Ltd., and Robert Arum, lawyer for the New York-based Main Events Inc., and last night Cassina said that the Sorel bid was being "seriously entertained."

The Sorel arena has a seating capacity of 4,500, but will hold 7,000, including standing room, for boxing.

Messengers, bids and rumors of bids were flooding in.

Huron, South Dakota, has been mentioned. So has Edmonton where Regina promoter Nick Zubray is reportedly negotiating for the fight.

Las Vegas and Louisville, Ky., are also said to be in the running.

And in the meantime, Clay is training in Miami, Fla., and Terrell in Pleasantville, N.J.

FLASH—Other cities mentioned late last night were Toronto, Quebec City, and Oshawa, Ont. Quebec declined to have the bout set at Quebec Arena of the American Hockey League give up their March 29 date for a game with Providence.

Little Lesson in Democracy If Cassius Willing to Listen

By JIM MURRAY

"Why me?" shouts the greatest patriot since Benedict Arnold, the No. 1 candidate for The Congressional Medal of Prudence, our own Nathan Hale, Cassius M. Clay.

Well, let's see. You're 6'7", Cass, get all your teeth, ears, feet, lungs. Your blood pressure is A-1, heart, hearing, lungs, all in perfect order. Feet not flat, sense of smell is excellent, left jab perfect, footwork sensational. The Viet Cong would head out the spy glasses to get a look.

But, I'll tell you what, Cass. All is not lost. Tell you what to do:

Go to some mother in Iowa or Harlem, for that matter. She will be sure to understand. Tell her you got this chance to make a big-money shot. Tell her you got two Cadillac, an ex-wife, a whole religion to support. Tell her you are too pretty to be married. Suggest she send her son in.

You got no quarrel with the Viet Cong, you said. Well, I think you're on solid ground there, Cass. Why go to war for a lousy principle? I mean, look at this way: Half-a-million guys got killed in the Civil War

Fighting against slavery. I bet half of them didn't even know what it was. Did you ever hear anything so silly in your life? The dumb clucks should have burned their draft cards. Or hire a lawyer, like you doing.

Well, there's a good side of it, Cass. If they hadn't died to free your folks, think of all the lawyers who would be out of work. Lordy, Elijah Muhammad himself might be broke. You're supporting the whole tea industry.

Why Fight?

I'd stick to my guns, Cass. Or, rather, I'd not stick to my guns. I'd stick to my doves. If it's not your kind of war, why say so. That's what they taught for at Lexington and Concord, at Bull Run and Gettysburg, isn't it? Damn right, it is!

Let the government know what YOUR kind of war is. Should we declare war on Chicago? Would you rather we wipe them out? How about if we attacked the Eskimos? A citizen should have his choice of wars. I figure we'd be a couple of million had no quarrel against Hitler. Why fight? I mean, German is easy to learn. Right? Lancelotti has the nerve, when you come right down to it.

No, I think it's a crying shame when a guy lives in a country that lets him make several million dollars and live like a roman emperor, then asks him to go fight for it. That's for the illiterates, the peasants, the guys who can't pass freshman English. That's not for you, Cass, or the rest of the elite—the guys who might find a cure for cancer or a way to defeat the ocean, or land on the moon. A guy who can knock Floyd Patterson down shouldn't have to go to war. Genius should be protected like The Great Condon.

But, as I say, all is not lost, Cass. All you have to do is study the lives of the great men. Take Rocky Graziano. They called Rocky in the army and his first battle was with his captain. He could cock him faster than Florida. They threw Rocky in the brig where they taught him to fight. They taught a lot of kids from Iowa to shoot at the same time. I don't suppose more than a couple-hundred-thousand lost their lives or limbs while he was in stir; but when he came out, he won the title, got on television, and sold his life story to the movies for $250,000. It was a thrilling picture. (Los Angeles Times)

New Zealand Rugby Team In Canada?

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP)—The rugby union will apply for the New Zealand representative team to tour Canada next year to help make up for the cancellation of a proposed tour of South Africa.

The union has decided to reject the South African invitation because it stipulated the sending of an all-white team, excluding members of New Zealand's Maori race.

The issue has caused distress among footballers because New Zealand and South Africa regard their perky encounters as a virtual rugby union world.

The New Zealand union decided to apply at a meeting of the International Rugby Board in Edinburgh March 18 for permission to make an alternative tour in 1967 in the Northern Hemisphere.

It is believed New Zealand administrators have been encouraged to include Canada by reports of increased Canadian interest and improving rugby standards.

Canada Gains Victory Hockey Meet Smaller

LJUBLJANA, Yugoslavia (CP)—Canada's desire to cut the championship group in world amateur hockey tournaments to five teams from the present eight finally appeared certain of acceptance Friday.

Officials of the International Ice Hockey Federation (IIHF) said the plan, rejected when Canada put it forward in 1963, could go into effect in 1968.

BETTER DEAL

In an apparent move to make the idea of cutting the size of the championship group more palatable to the weaker hockey countries, Ahearne suggested to IIHF delegates a better financial deal for teams in Groups B and C.

To help them, the IIHF would forgo its present 20-per-cent cut of world tournament revenues. These funds would go instead to the national federations organizing tournaments for groups B and C.

GIVE MONEY

In addition, the countries in the championship group would assign five per cent of their tournament revenues to help organize the tournaments in the two lower groups.

The present share-out of revenue from the combined three-group tournament is 40 per cent to the host national federation, 40 per cent split among participating countries, and the 20 per cent allocated to the IIHF budget.

HAPPY MOOD

Meanwhile, Canada's national team was in a happy mood but, with the Russians looming on the horizon, it could not be accused of over-confidence.

The Canadian players worked out Friday in a businesslike style, following an impressive 4-3 victory over the United States in their first game of the tournament Thursday.

Playing-coach Jackie MacLeod directed pass-and-shoot exercises for an hour in preparation.

The races start at 1 p.m. on Sunday only, not today as previously stated.

Britain, president of the IIHF, said the discussion among delegates from member countries Friday made him confident the new system will be approved at the next full congress by IIHF in Vienna in August.

But it was too late to make any changes for the 1967 world championship, also scheduled for Vienna, or for the 1968 Winter Olympic Games in Grenoble, France.

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian figure-skating team arrived home Thursday from the world championships last week in Davos, Switzerland, with harsh criticism for the judges and referees that the competition was rigged.

"I wouldn't say they were fixed, but I've got my own impressions," said Mrs. Ellen Burke of Toronto, mother and coach of Petra Burke who lost her world women's title when she finished third in the women's singles competition.

Carol Fleming of the United States won.

Mrs. Burke's suggestion that the judges were against the Canadians was backed up by Dr. Charles Snelling, who finished the last at Davos with "the ice at Maple Leaf Gardens after the third period of a Canadiens-Les Canadiens game. They didn't sweep it off and didn't even flood it."

There are still 10 seats vacant in the United bus, and those wishing to make the trip should phone Fred Magee at EV 3-3303.

United's next home game will be Sunday, March 13, against New Westminster.

I don't know any European country that is dangerous in these points — though I'm for bottled water in southern Europe.

Restoration work first began in Samarkand. The Gur Emir mausoleum, where Central Asian ruler Tamerlane was buried in 1405, was restored with new tiles in 1948.

Workers are attacking with shovels the floor of one of the numerous crypts in the Sha iz India mausoleum, or "mausoleum of living kings," to search for tombs.

Most of the tile-covered palaces and mosques were built by the conqueror Tamerlane (Timur the Lame) in the 14th century. He wanted to make Samarkand the capital of Asia and imported 91 elephants from India to bring stones to this desert oasis.

NEGLECTED
The monuments of Central Asia are young, as monuments go, but have fallen into ruins because of long neglect and also because they were not constructed well in the first place. As the Soviet government has a policy of atheism, they are being restored as works of art, to serve as museums, not to support the Moslem religion. Just as some of the old Russian orthodox churches are being preserved.

LENNIN'S PICTURE
In Bukhara, Lenin's picture draped with red flags decorates the entrance of one old unused mosque. The big Muslim school under restoration in Samarkand no longer is used. There is only one school in the Uzbek Republic to train religious leaders, and that is a small institute in Bukhara with 18 pupils. Bukhara (population 95,000) has one mosque used for religious services. Samarkand (230,000) also has only one mosque in use.

SOVIET MESSAGE
The old city wall of Bukhara, where camel caravans once plodded through a huge wooden gate, is used for a Soviet message. The old prison inside the gate has wax figures in the cells to illustrate the cruelty of the old emirs (local rulers). A nearby museum exhibits the emirs' rich robes next to tattered rags worn by the common people of pre-Bolshevik times to illustrate the better condition of the Soviet man.

ORIENTAL AIR
These ancient cities are exciting to a tourist not just for the ruins, but also because of their oriental air. The cheerful crowds buying grapes and nuts in the open market, the exotic food, the turbaned men sitting on rug-covered tables to sip green tea—all a sharp change from the drab sobriety of Moscow.

The Soviets gradually are improving tourist facilities, such as planning a 10-storey hotel in being restored as works of art, to serve as museums, not to support the Moslem religion. Just as some of the old Russian orthodox churches are being preserved.

"How long will it take us from Paris to London?"

One hour if you fly. Eight hours if you take the train — the Golden Arrow — and the channel boat. This train trip is rather pleasant. You get on at the Gare du Nord in Paris at half past noon, a civilized hour. Have lunch en route. Have a British tea on the boat. And drinks on the train going up to London in the late twilight.

Your hotel concierge gets them. The audience is 40 per cent American. So they slip in about 40 per cent of the jokes so "We want to rent a small house or apartment in a warm climate near a beach in Europe for several months. Do you know such a place — something like Puerto Vallarta in Mexico?"

I'd say Portugal. And for a town, try Setúbal across the river from Lisbon. It's a fishing village and rather picturesque. There's one new, good hotel. Don't know about rents. But it will be a question of finding something you like. Prices are low enough. There just aren't a lot of good rental houses.

"Can we buy flashlight batteries while in Europe?"

You can. But those I bought in Portugal and Spain were pretty bad. Leaked acid all over the case.

"Can we get soap and Kleenex?"

Everywhere. A little higher prices than here in some places. But not enough to warrant parking a lot with you.

"Can we fly from place to place in England?"

Between all larger cities. BEA runs planes around England like commuter buses.

Blood Clinic Misses Goal

The Red Cross fell short of its 800-pint goal for its latest two-day clinic, despite a flurry of second-day donors Thursday.

The 305 donors who turned up at Red Cross House Thursday pushed the total for the clinic to 518 pints, 82 short of its goal.

Soviets Preserve Ancient Fairy Tale

By ALINE MOSBY

SAMARKAND, Soviet Central Asia (UPI) — The Soviets are doing their best to see that Samarkand stays a fairy tale.

Authorities are trying to preserve the neglected palaces and mosques of this fabled city.

Scaffolding around mosques where workers apply cement on new tiles to match the old mosaics that have been flaking off the minarets. Uzbeks in blue work coveralls plunge shovels into tombs amidst clouds of ancient dust, and archeologists carefully unearth ancient walls.

RARE SIGHT

To a traveller, the ruins of Samarkand and Bukhara are a rare sight. Relatively few foreigners have viewed the beauties of the cities once ruled by Alexander the Great, Genghis Khan and Tamerlane.

The Soviet Union realizes the attractiveness of the ruins and the need to preserve them for posterity. The government has allotted Bukhara and Khiva, smaller and older cities to the east, a yearly grant of $25,000 in an effort to save the old mosques almost completely shorn of their tiles because of centuries of neglect.

It's Them!

Indian Cadet Seeks Pen-Pal

An Indian military cadet is seeking a Canadian pen-pal in Victoria.

He is Cadet Jaswant Singh Rehill, 23, in training as a sub-lieutenant. His address is Chittor Coy, 3 PL, Army Cadet College, Poona 1, India.

While Tashkent has at least 40 per cent Russian inhabitants, Samarkand has 15 per cent. But there is a loud modernity in the prefabricated apartment houses, the opera house and some shops of Samarkand built in the latest Soviet style with no Asian touches to blend with the Asian landscape.

Ceramic plates and figurines are made for tourists but the famed old rugs of Central Asia are no longer easily found. New hand and machine made rugs abound in the department stores.

In addition to restoring monuments the Russians have modernized Samarkand with schools, universities, hospitals and industries.

BIG ACHIEVEMENT
Russian influence is seen in the modern opera house with a ballet company, quite an achievement for any small city.

These ancient cities are exciting to a tourist not just for the ruins, but also because of their oriental air. The cheerful crowds buying grapes and nuts in the open market, the exotic food, the turbaned men sitting on rug-covered tables to sip green tea—all a sharp change from the drab sobriety of Moscow.

In Bukhara, Lenin's picture draped with red flags decorates the entrance of one old unused mosque. The big Muslim school under restoration in Samarkand no longer is used. There is only one school in the Uzbek Republic to train religious leaders, and that is a small institute in Bukhara with 18 pupils. Bukhara (population 95,000) has one mosque used for religious services. Samarkand (230,000) also has only one mosque in use.

SOVIET MESSAGE
The old city wall of Bukhara, where camel caravans once plodded through a huge wooden gate, is used for a Soviet message. The old prison inside the gate has wax figures in the cells to illustrate the cruelty of the old emirs (local rulers). A nearby museum exhibits the emirs' rich robes next to tattered rags worn by the common people of pre-Bolshevik times to illustrate the better condition of the Soviet man.

TV Teaching Tamed In North Kamloops

By BILL STAVDAL

A one-eyed monster has been tamed to work for teachers and students at North Kamloops.

Television, first used to alleviate a classroom shortage in 1964, has proven its worth, said teacher Larry Shorter during Friday's annual one-day conference of the Greater Victoria Teachers' Association.

A tiny studio converted from a store room and staffed by high school students is supplying 2,500 students in three schools with daily home-made educational TV.

With video tape making recordings of programs instantly replayable, the school system is collecting a library of lectures which don't have to be given "live" again.

IN ADVANCE

Lessons can be prepared in advance, and the tape is erasable and reusable, said Mr. Shorter.

In two years of experimentation the school district had made these conclusions:

• Students can learn at least as well from TV as in a conventional classroom setting.

• It holds attention and eliminates many classroom distractions.

• TV lessons must be better organized to be effective.

WELL-PREPARED

They have to be well-prepared because of the system's biggest drawback: A TV set can't answer questions.

On the other hand, students' self-reliance increases when they know they're on their own, said Mr. Shorter.

TEACHERS IMPRESSED

"Teachers throughout our province are impressed with this symbol of progress," he reported. "Never has the district drawn so many applications for teaching positions."

Another educator, Dr. John Coulson of Santa Monica, ran into stiff criticism after outlining and supporting the use of programmed learning.

SENIOR LEADER

Dr. Coulson is senior research leader at System Development Corporation, and specializes in educational technology.

Programmed learning, he said, involves presenting knowledge in a carefully-prepared series of steps, one leading to the next. A student answers questions, then learns the answers immediately and discovers whether he is on the right track.

J. A. Sprague, director of economic welfare of the B.C. Teachers' Federation, warned that the system neglects the creative influence of the teacher.

He said programmed learning is useful in teaching mechanical subjects. But a child would become a mechanical being by relying solely on programmed learning, he asserted.

CONFORMITY

Dr. Fred Tyler, dean of education at the University of Victoria, said the system instills conformity by teaching that there is only one correct answer to a question.

Dr. Maurice Freehill, professor of educational psychology at the University of Washington, discounted programmed learning because of its lack of teacher-pupil exchange of ideas.

SYSTEM RIGHT

Dr. Coulson said in rebuttal that programmed learning can even teach creativity if the system is right.

Dr. Freehill's own speech was an appeal for teaching intelligence in children, not just teaching skills.

Putting their heads together here this weekend are these 12 university and senior high school yearbook editors from across Canada. They and several dozen others are attending University of Victoria's first annual national yearbook conference. ## MLA Cites Butane

Victoria's Sacred MLA

Donald Smith complained in the legislature Friday that Vancouver Island users of B.C. Hydro's butane gas are paying 50 per cent more for this fuel than people on the mainland.

He told the House that municipalities benefited from equalization of electricity rates and that it is time for gas rates to be equalized between the island and the mainland.

Mr. Smith suggested the premier should ask Hydro officials to consider this problem, when he presents a request for lower natural gas rates during Hydro directors' meeting in Vancouver, March 21.

Mr. Smith also asked the government to consider making the homeowner grant apply to persons who own and live in duplexes.

The premier advised him he should bring this item up when the homeowner grant vote comes before the House at a later date.

The Victoria MLA said that, at the present time, persons who buy lifetime apartment suites are eligible for the grants.

He also pointed out that if two families who jointly own and occupy a duplex want to take the trouble of forming under the Companies Act, at a legal cost of about $350 each, each family then becomes eligible for the grant.

Mr. Smith said outside the legislature it is a shame that people have to go to so much trouble and expense to obtain the grant. He believes legislation should be amended to make them eligible for the grant.

Patients To Fly Out

GOLD RIVER—If weather conditions permit three of the more seriously ill residents of Friendly Cove, the Heilichon Indian village, 35 miles west of here, will be flown to Kamloops Regional Hospital today.

Ninety per cent of the 105 villagers of the settlement on North Island have been ill with influenza but conditions have improved since the arrival Thursday of a doctor and nurse from the Indian Health department.

Snowflurries, winds of 35 miles an hour gusting up to 40 miles an hour and high seas prevented a plane from landing at Friendly Cove Friday.

Big M marks driveway of William McMichael

Eye-Grabbing 'Brands' Point Way

By JIM BRAMAN

All driveways look alike as 60 miles-an-hour to a driver on an unlit road, but Patricia Bay Highway residents have solved this problem in a colorful way.

Many driveways along the highway have been distinctively marked in individual patterns by reflector tape, glass reflectors, painted designs and other markings, to help friends find their way.

Mrs. Gwen McLean, 8403 Patricia Bay Highway, said Thursday that her family's rural mail box, painted a brilliant green on a striped upright fitted with reflectors, has been an excellent marker.

HARD-TO-FIND

"It helps us at night, as well as visiting friends," she said.

Mrs. McLean explained that most people along the highway have their own landmarks and know when to slow down from the 60-mile speed limit as they approach their homes.

She agreed that it would be difficult for a stranger to find a specific driveway at night.

Some of the mail boxes have been painted with fluorescent paint, while others have been given a coat of brilliant red, green, or orange paint.

Telephone poles in front of some of the properties carry red-and-white stripes as a private brand of the homeowner.

A few residents have their initials in plywood placed on either side of their driveway and some have added reflector tape and glass reflectors to the large wooden letters.

He said he saved the quarters in a box built into the wall of his home. Each day, he put in an amount he figured would have been spent on cigarettes.

Sailors See Brazil's Glories, Poverty

BOUND FOR BUENOS

AIRES — Ten pairs of binoculars on Stettler's bridge, and all available ones elsewhere in the ship, were levelled on Copacabana Beach as 12 RCN ships approached Rio de Janeiro last week.

Unfortunately, it was a bit too early in the forenoon for the bikini set but nevertheless it was still a magnificent view in the blazing sun—the great crescent of golden sand backed by the expensive hotels and apartments and the Sugar Loaf with a cable car dangling apparently in space.

At a distance of a mile or so, the scene could have been taken right off a travel agency poster.

The first libertines were ashore shortly after noon with cameras, swim suits and golf clubs and outside the dockyard gate, the Rio taxi drivers eyed the sudden influx of dollars with much interest.

Our Brazilian Navy liaison officer warned us to settle the fare before getting into the cab which was good advice but difficult to follow as no one knew the city or how far it was from A to B. Most of the taxi-drivers have a distinct resemblance to the late actor — Akim Tamiroff and drive like Juan Fangio, the retired world champion driver from Argentina. There's apparently no speed limit in Rio and it's a thrill minute — especially at night in a taxi.

The language barrier slowed up activity considerably — I was surprised by the very few Brazilians who spoke French which somehow I always thought was the country's second language.

At Stettler's steering wheel the cox'n—CPO Fred Kitchen of 408 Thetis Crescent, Victoria, had difficulty hearing the helm orders down the voice pipe for the warning of movie cameras on the bridge all the way up harbor. Stettler and Antigonish were berthed alongside each other astern of Bonaventure.

All awnings in both ships were spread in a vain attempt to keep the heat out, and the Engineer Officer, Lieut. Lucien Voyer of 3841 Clarendon Road, Victoria went ashore to look for fresh water to fill his tanks. He got it—two days later.

Fresh water is a rare commodity in Rio, and especially after the recent disastrous floods, and I had visions of bottles of "Lindoya" — the local bottled water being carried on board and tipped into our tanks.

Pickpockets are rife in Rio as some of our sailors found out to their expense. One such incident involving two of Stettler's sailors ended in a freak accident and a tragedy.

Able Seaman Wayne Moore, of 1214 Carlisle Ave., Victoria and Able Seaman John Dodgson of Portage la Prairie, Man., were sitting in a cafe when Dodgson found his wallet gone from his hip pocket. They found two Brazilian policemen outside and reported the loss.

The policemen asked them to go with them to the police station to fill in a report and as they were walking along a narrow street the two sailors and one policeman in front, the other Brazilian following — the leading policeman's holster and revolver literally fell off his belt — the writing was later discovered to be rotten — and as the holster hit the ground the gun fired from the shock and the policeman following was badly hit.

Moore immediately took charge of the wounded man — ripped off his singlet and using it as a bandage and attempting mouth to mouth resuscitation while the other Brazilian got an ambulance. This occurred at about midnight and it was late the following afternoon when the two sailors returned to the ship and a full investigation had been carried out with the Brazilian authorities, a representative from the Canadian Embassy and the RCN liaison officer.

Moore and Dodgson were complemented on their prompt action in a difficult situation — especially as they were surrounded by a crowd of Brazilians who apparently appeared indifferent to the fact that a man had been badly wounded.

Lt.-Cmdr. Irvine writes from HMCS Stettler on exercises in South American waters. Today's installment of his continuing series was delayed in the mail in Buenos Aires because of a festive holiday. Mr. Irvine is commanding officer of the ship.

For two afternoons, Stettler was open to visitors and as an added attraction the Go-Go group opened up with the electric guitars on the fo'c'sle. Some 4,000 locals crossed the

Each man in Stettler has his own impressions and will be left with his own memories of Rio — for me it's a city of great wealth and dreadful poverty as evidenced by the "favelas" in the hills behind the wide prosperous avenues.

It's a city of mad drivers who rarely have a serious accident—it's Copacabana and Ipiniima with the bright bikinis and sun-blackened girls—yet shorts are frowned upon in the streets. It's jumbo shrimps and enormous avocados—it's cheap excellent rum and good local beer and very expensive Scotch whiskey.

It's volatile, and progressive—it's Brazilians and others who think, and they have every right to do so, that Brazil has a great future.

Sweater Only Catch

Two girls who went into a dress shop at the Mayfield shopping centre Wednesday left a sweater and took $35 from a saleswoman's purse.

Police said the girls went into Gray's Ladies' Wear and went into a changing room which adjoined the staff room.

Mrs. Gwen Hare noticed the contents of her purse spilled on a table in the room and grabbed one of the girls as she left.

Batman Stunt Caves In

NEW YORK (UPI) — Never underestimate the power of a woman, Batman, especially if she is a powerful stockholder in one of your commercial sponsors.

A few weeks ago a public relations firm flooded the nation's news offices with a release which read: "The Batman cometh—into your home via an offer of a personal photo."

The announcement disclosed that an autographed 8x10 likeness of Batman and Robin could be had by mailing an empty toothpaste carton to Batman, Bat Cave, N.C.

The story carrying Batman's "address" got into print and among its readers was Mrs. Walter Flinch of Cincinnati, Ohio, and Bat Cave, N.C.

Mrs. Flinch happens to be the granddaughter of a founder of Procter and Gamble, and she also is the owner of the cave which gives the tiny community of Bat Cave its name. Procter and Gamble manufactures the toothpaste whose carton was required for the photograph.

The lady got on the phone to Procter and Gamble, in which she owns a good deal of stock.

MEMORABLE

Result: The already-prepared television commercial with the Batman, N.C., address was hastily revised.

Bat Cave, population 200, originally was selected by a member of the staff of a New York advertising agency which was asked to find a "memorable address" for the photo offer.

"In casting about, he checked the post office registry for a Gotham City—Batman's 'home town'—and finding none he looked under 'B' for Bat," said the spokesman.

Then—zap—Mrs. Flinch!

Chamber Music Revival

Victoria Strings Along with Surge

By WILLIAM THOMAS

Fritz Reiner, conductor of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, is credited with the expression "what this country needs is more lousy string quartets."

Victoria may not have too many lousy string groups but it is enjoying the surge of interest in chamber music that is sweeping North America.

Prime mover behind the local revival is Robin Wood who, since his arrival to take a position on the faculty of the Victoria School of Music, has been busy training and rehearsing a trio.

Acting as pianist and leader, Robin Wood has inspired Jean Angers and Hans Siegrist to hours of rehearsal and the results of their efforts have rewarded city concertgoers with a vigorous trio.

Robin Wood commented: "Getting string players of high calibre, who are also prepared to give the time necessary for polishing this type of music, has always been a problem."

He cited his own experiences in London, where he played in a trio with Sidney Humphries and Norman Jones. Humphries plays in Memlin's Bath Chamber ensemble and Jones is principal cellist with the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra. Even using musicians of this calibre, chamber playing calls for intense concentration and rehearsal.

***

In an effort to build an interest in the chamber form and to create a pool of players for the future, Robin Wood has initiated a class at the Victoria School of Music for chamber players.

His trio coaches the youngsters and offers practical advice.

Mr. Wood explained: "The greatest problem at the moment has been in getting scores for all those who are interested in this Saturday class."

He added, "We already have the potential necessary to form several new trios and possibly a number of quartets."

Robin Wood commented on the reluctance of audiences to accept chamber music. "They are so used to the full sound of the symphony they are not prepared to accept the smaller chamber orchestra but gradually our concertgoers are coming around."

***

Mr. Wood agreed that the Chamber Orchestra concert last fall had proved there was an audience for this music.

A near full house at the Royal Theatre enjoyed an afternoon of Bach and Corelli that proved one of the outstanding musical events of the year.

Mr. Wood explained: "Finesse is the keynote in chamber playing and naturally familiarity is the answer to acceptance."

"I hope that in the seasons ahead our audiences will become as familiar with the Schubert B flat trio and the C major quintet as they are with Beethoven symphonies."

***

For their next chamber concert, the trio has been expanded to include Barry Moncur, John de Jarnatt, Kenneth Copeland and James McKay.

They will offer a program that will include Schubert's Trout Quintet. This holiday mood composition was first used by Schubert as a song Die Forelle.

In summarizing his own attitude to chamber playing, Robin Wood concluded: "These concerts will only succeed and survive if they are played with vitality and professionalism, if we can manage this then I am certain our audiences will respond."

***

From the amount of effort being put into rehearsal it seems safe to predict that we will be hearing lots more from the Victoria Trio and their guest artists.

Japan. The violinist leader of the trio is 33.

Pianist Alex Bilek is 34 and was a prize-winner in the 1957 Springtime in Prague Music Festival. He has been featured soloist with many Czechoslovakian orchestras and has also toured extensively.

Cellist Václav Jirovek was a soloist with the Prague Radio Orchestra before joining the trio. He is just 30.

***

The trio met while still pupils at the Superior School of Music in Prague.

Their program for Victoria will be chosen from Schubert, Rameau, Beethoven, Haydn, Shostakovich and Dvorak.

This concert will conclude the season for Jeunesses Musicales in Victoria.

Each of the three young members has enjoyed a distinguished career as a concert soloist.

Fratisek Popelil began giving concerts while still a student and has toured Europe and

City Man's Meditation In 'Room'

John Grier, 68, of 650 Victoria Avenue, is the author of a meditation accepted for publication by the 3,225,000-circulation Upper Room magazine for March-April.

Mr. Grier's article in 35 languages will be the Daily Devotion meditation on Saturday, April 16 for subscribers in more than 100 countries of the world.

Each day's reading in The Upper Room includes a Bible reference, a Bible text, a meditation, a prayer and a thought for the day.

"It is estimated that 70,000 churches provide copies of The Upper Room as part of their ministry," said Dr. J. Manning Potts, editor, of Nashville, Tenn.

Mr. Grier has been an elder of Fairfield United Church for the past 16 years and before that was an elder in Winnipeg for 19 years. He is a retired B.C. Telephone Co. employee.

His article, on Page 56 of The Upper Room, is entitled Riches in Jesus Christ.

To Counteract Inward-Looking Church

Businessmen-Ministers Urged

The idea of multiple part-time ministers, involved in practical business life as well as in the work of the church, was suggested to a church discussion group last Sunday by Seymour Park, director of information for the B.C. Forest Service.

Mr. Park spoke to 75 people representing 20 congregations who are taking part in an inter-church discussion course being held at 7:45 p.m. Sundays and Mondays and 10 a.m. Wednesdays in St. David by-the-Sea's fellowship hall in Cordova Bay.

Mr. Park pointed out the danger of church people turning inward and not contacting outsiders. He said there was need for more paid expert help within the church.

OUT OF CONTACT

"Many of the clergy are outside of practical business life."

"Most of the churches are directed by older people," he said, "older people who are out of contact with younger people." In discussion following the talk, a number of members agreed the church had a poor image.

Walker

They recommended the church discuss modern topics, use modern language and speak directly to the point.

Brighter music, livelier hymns and instrumental accompaniment were other recommendations.

Discussion groups recommended psalms be read, not chanted and that church teaching be given by other means than sermons. Films and drama were suggested.

RESENT PRESSURE

A number of young people who attended the meetings brought guitars, and songs and some opinions.

"Many of us are ready to volunteer for work in the church, but resent being pressured, told what to do and what not to do," said one.

"The church needs to communicate with parents before communicating with teenagers," said another.

Said general chairman Rev. H. Gordon Walker, "Some of the middle-aged people, especially the Monday evening group, didn't seem too happy about what was being discussed."

"They were reluctant to take a new look at worship and were concerned about the danger of the Prayer Book and the Church Liturgy being thrown out," said the minister.

Mr. Walker feels satisfied with the way the course is going and invites interested members of the public to "join in the stimulation."

SCIENTIST

The three weekly gatherings will continue until May 1.

Guest speaker for the next in the series of discussions starting Sunday will be Dr. Athan Batten, research scientist at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory.

Dr. Batten will speak about the basic meaning, purpose and use of time. The discussion groups will consider the value and use of time in terms of the Christian faith and life.

Battle of Giants

By OSGOOD CARLUTHERS

The Los Angeles Times

BONN — The battle of the giants continues unabated in Poland between the nation's Communist rulers and its Roman Catholic bishops. One can more specifically characterize it as confrontation by the most influential personalities in Poland — Communist party chief Wladyslaw Gomulka and the Catholic primate, Stefan Cardinal Wysynski.

It is now conceded by both sides that this was developed into a full-fledged political struggle rather than the more basic fight over atheism versus religion. The real dispute, it would appear, revolves around whether the minds and hearts of the Polish people shall be turned eastward or westward.

Tradition

It is quite evident that Cardinal Wysynski has deliberately set out to keep alive in his large and religious faithful congregation the age-old tradition of spiritual and cultural attachment to the west.

The thesis propounded by the Cardinal that probably aggravates Gomulka more than any other is that Poland remains "the bastion of Christianity" in Godless eastern Europe. The clear implication of the Communist leader draws from this thesis is that the Roman Catholic episcopate, led by the cardinal and the bishops loyal to him, still must play its historic role as principal rallying point against the incursions from Russia, whether they be by heathen Tartar, backward Muscovite, avenging Cossack or Today's Soviet hegemony.

Polish Church-State Duel Goes Deep Under Surface

Naturally, this runs counter not only to Gomulka's personal orientation but also to the whole conceptual course upon which his regime has set the nation.

Out of Cellar

This is a dispute of the most profound nature. It has been brought out of the cellar once again by the invitation extended by Cardinal Wysynski and his bishops of West Germany — without consulting the government. They asked the Germans to attend ceremonies at the beginning of May marking the 1,000th anniversary of the introduction of Christianity to Poland.

That letter of invitation, written in the tradition of the Christian goodwill generated by the Vatican's ecumenical council, has been picked apart bit by bit by the government propaganda machine in Warsaw. Its fragments have been hurled back at the church leaders in an effort to discredit them as being soft on Germans, who are still suspected of seeking to gain back Silesia and Pomerania, the territories they lost to Poland.

But the invitation to the Germans, including its proposals of reconciliation and "mutual forgiveness," is only a part of the greater struggle. In fact, it actually provided the Warsaw regime with ammunition that was badly needed to combat the cardinal's constant efforts to turn Polish heads westward.

Beaten to Punch

Another sector of the battle is the celebration of Poland's millennium as a nation. The cardinal beat the regime to the punch by scheduling in late April and early May a great church celebration of the anniversary of the time when Poland's King Mieszko was baptized into Christianity 1,000 years ago. The government has set its own celebration of the 1,000th anniversary of the establishment of the Polish state (the two occurred simultaneously) for more than a month later.

Doubtless stung by this tactical coup, the regime has charged bitterly that Cardinal Wysynski had intentionally set up a rival celebration to exaggerate the conflict of church and state.

The propaganda machinery in Warsaw, including the government-controlled religious press, continues to raise the specter of West German "re-vanchism" in which the cardinal is depicted as encouraging Bonn's desires for recovery of territory now making up Poland's western frontier. However, Gomulka himself has conceded that no one can rightly accuse the Roman Catholic hierarchy in Poland of proposing to sacrifice any of the former German territory in the west now under Polish control.

Basic Threat

It is the implication, interpreted by Gomulka from statements by the cardinal, that Poland should seek to regain those territories in the east which were taken away after the end of the Second World War by the Soviet Union.

This, of course, threatens the very foundation of Communist Poland's close alliance with the Soviet Union and her dependence upon Soviet military might for her defence against the "threat from the west."

Although the government has refused to issue a new passport to Cardinal Wysynski to allow him to travel outside the country, it has not made any effort to curb the appearance of the primate or the bishops in the packed churches of the country — to defend the episcopate position and indeed to denounce the regime's attacks.

And it is precisely the fact that the church leaders have threatened to destroy one of the regime's most persuasive theses — the fear of West Germany — which at the same time fanning Polish antipathies against the Polish neighbor to the east that keeps this titanic feud boiling.

THE VOICE OF ONE

By REV. DR. FRANK S. MORLEY

"Lent" comes from an old Anglo-Saxon word for spring, "lencthen," which may be related to "lengthen," since days get longer. But Lent is not merely a spiritual springtime and season of renewal. It is a time of personal penitence, self-examination, and integration.

Most of us resist such challenges to self-examination since we live in a state of self-deception and blind infatuation. We have a cunning self-deceit which allows us to find scapegoats and make clever excuses for our conduct. Or we accept general principles, without applying the particulars to ourselves. We judge ourselves leniently and others severely. We find ourselves condemning most in others the very aims to which we are most prone.

Yet self-judgment is not only dangerous because it may lead to hypocritical self-righteousness—"Lord, I thank Thee that I am not as other men are"—but also because it quite often leads to morbid introspection and evil despair. How can a man escape both hazards of self-concealment and self-abasement?

Only by bringing life into the security and judgment of God. It is here that belonging to a Church helps invaluable. As a man is in that holy place surrounded by fellow-worshippers, humbled by tradition and open to Divine grace, he prays with the Psalmist, "Search me, O God, and know my heart; try me, and know my thoughts; and see if there be any wicked way in me; and lead me in the way everlasting."

In this world of the 20th century a man is pulled this way and that. How can he escape the strains, frustrations, and compromises of events and conditions?

Supreme Love

Only as the diverse activities and purposes of a man's life are guided, regulated, restrained and regenerated into a throbbing movement of a great engine, has the heart peace. Such direction and vitality are determined by what the heart loves. What the heart loves decided the life's destiny.

"Out of the heart are the issues of life," said Jesus. The deepest imperative of life is to channel the desires and loyalties into one overwhelming, supreme love. Thus Paul, looking on the dissensions and frictions of the Church at Thessalonica, prayed,

"The Lord direct your hearts into the love of God."

This is the remedy for all the disorders of life. Without this central loyalty all is unbalanced, wayward and fickle. A masterless man is a lost spirit in the trackless wilderness. He has no place of peace, no spring of fresh joy, in the desert's whirling sands of circumstance. When we shift the focus of life to God and thence to others, we become sensitive to the power that guides and the light which consumes sin and lights the road for the journey. Prayer: God, be merciful to me, a sinner.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An expansive President Johnson served up bipartisan hospitality Thursday for congressmen and their wives, and gave them an extra pat on the back for their bill passing record.

Nearly 1,000 congressional guests attended the White House party. In the political language of the day, it was a veritable "hawks' nest. Only a few 'doves' showed up, but all was peaceful and gay.

Senate Republican leader Everett Dirksen of Illinois took the baton to lead the marine band in a rendition of "Danny Boy."

DANCED WITH MURIEL

Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, came with his wife, munched on buffet snacks, and danced with Muriel Humphrey, the vice-president's wife. He has been a severe critic of the president's Viet Nam policy.

Johnson's most outspoken critic on Viet Nam, Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., sent his regrets.

Leaders of the Senate and House from both parties were greeted by President and Mrs. Johnson in their upstairs quarters, along with committee chairmen and ranking Republican members.

"UNBELIEVABLE"
Johnson was obviously happy with the way things have been going in Congress. "This has been a rather unbelievable 10 days in the record of congress," he told reporters.

"Every Republican voted for the Viet Nam military aid bill," he said. "There's no deep, mean, vicious partnership."

Youth Rallies Planned

The provincial director of Youth for Christ, Rev. Ken Lockwood, will meet at 2:30 p.m. today with representatives of Victoria evangelical churches to discuss the possibilities of a regular Victoria rally program.

"The Vancouver YFC has been re-activated recently and attendance has been more than 1,000 per rally held every other Saturday evening," said Rev. Ted Chapman at whose church, the Alliance at 1800 Yates, today's meeting is being held.

Mr. Lockwood will be guest speaker at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. services Sunday at the Alliance church.

Biggest Carrier

Barge In Sea Today

By BOB PETHICK

A covered barge capable of carrying enough newspaper to span twice around the world will be launched at 3 p.m. today at Yarrow's Ltd., Victoria.

The Nanos Carrier, built for MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. will join her sister newspaper barge, the Nootka Carrier, in paper-hauling service as the two largest barges in the world.

Officiating at the launching will be Mrs. E. G. Shorter, wife of the vice-chairman of MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River.

UNIQUE SERVICE

The two barges will inaugurate a unique newspaper transportation service between the company's mills at Port Alberni and Powell River and San Francisco and Long Beach, Calif. They were built at a combined cost of $2,500,000.

One of the largest tugs ever to be built in Canada, the Haida Brave, is now being equipped in Halifax to tow the two barges.

Control of the barge's windlass the lowering of anchor and chain by a radio signal system, operable from the attendant tug has been installed. The highly successful system, perfected by Yarrow's Ltd., permits the tug master to start the diesel engine on the barge, release the anchor chain clows, release the windlass brake, lower and raise the anchor.

Newsprint was formerly moved to California by rail and deepsea freighter but it is expected the barges will deliver their cargoes with less damage and may be the forerunners of a new type of towed carrier transporting high class merchandise on ocean voyages.

In City Churches

Dedication Sunday

The church of St. Dunstan at San Juan and Tyndall in Gordon Head will be officially dedicated by Archbishop Harold E. Sexton at 3 p.m. Sunday.

Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes will read the lesson.

"The occasion marks the culmination of more than two years of dedicated work by the congregation, following the amalgamation in September, 1963, of the two mission churches of St. Chad's at Mount Douglas and St. Richard's at Gordon Head," said the rector, Archdeacon A. E. Hendy.

Following the dedication ceremony, a plaque and cross will be placed in the wall of the sanctuary garden abutting the east end of the church.

His Grace the Archbishop will officiate, assisted by Mrs. Alice Ward and Mrs. George Ross who will represent the original members of the former parish churches.

Following the ceremonies a reception will be held in the crypt sponsored by St. Dunstan's Women's Auxiliary.

Practising religion at home will be the sermon topic at 11 a.m. today by Pastor A. M. Spent at the Seventh-day Adventist Church, Pandora at Vancouver.

Peaceful Chapel for Archbishop

Archbishop's Chapel of the Peace of God was built in 1963 in memory of John Forrest Yarrow, killed in motor accident in England that year, by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Yarrow. Chapel is attached to residence of Most Rev. Harold E. Sexton on Vancouver Street in Cathedral block for exclusive use of His Grace. Among uses are small confirmation services and services for clergy. Chapel sanctuary is surrounded by carving of crucifixion executed by Oberammergau, Germany passion play actor, above colored arms of dioceses in ecclesiastical province of B.C.—(William A. Boucher)

Like Any Other Citizen

Jury Service 'Cleric's Duty'

Clergymen should be able for jury service, just like any other citizen, says a member of the laity, Joffre de Blois, 1902 Foul Bay Road.

Mr. de Blois was referring to continuing efforts of the Victoria Council of Churches to prevail upon Attorney-General Bonner to exempt clergymen who object to jury service on religious grounds.

"The clergy is committed to the practice of forgiveness, so cannot impose punishment," said Bishop D. A. G. Rankin, who added he personally would rather go to jail than serve on a jury in a criminal case.

"But it wants someone else to do the convicting,"

Mr. de Blois said that if the clergymen's example of refusing to serve on a jury were followed by other citizens, then a person performing a criminal act wouldn't be brought to trial.

"Anyone who wants to exempt himself from his duties in a democracy should not have the right to have a vote, let alone run for public office—as so many clergymen do."

"When a person votes," said Mr. de Blois, "he is, in a sense, creating the principles of his society. Voting should carry with it the obligation to enforce these principles."

NOT EFFECTIVE

A Jury Amendment Act, passed by the B.C. Legislature in March, 1964, under which clergymen would be liable for jury service has not yet gone into effect.

A brief objecting to the act was drawn up by Canon C.

For Lent

Series Stirs Minds

God created the world and made it very good—how, then, do we explain evil in the world and in ourselves?

This is one of the provocative questions being discussed in a series of five Lenten sermons by Professor Brian Cooper of the Anglican Theological college of Vancouver at 8 p.m. each Wednesday in St. John Anglican Church.

The professor's topic next Wednesday, March 9, will be "Revelation: Are You Kidding?"

—Is the Bible God's Word? Is Christ the Son of God?

DISCUSSION

Knowing the Unknownable is the March 16 topic.

"Most Christians speak of personal communication with God," said the professor, "Are they dehumanizing themselves?" he will ask.

Discussion and refreshments will follow each talk.

Professor Cooper, who is a rare triple-honor graduate from Oxford, will have as his March 23 topic The Black Cloud, when he will discuss evil.

Can Humpty Dumpty be Put Together Again? will be the March 30 topic when the theologian will discuss the shape Christian faith and discipline might be expected to take in the 1970s.

Care Plan Broadened In Alberta

EDMONTON (CP) — The Alberta medical care program will be broadened, re-named and cost the government more money, Provincial Treasurer A. O. Aalberg said Friday night in his budget address.

He estimated expenditures for the program in the new fiscal year starting April at $10,047,000 compared with $3,043,000 estimated for the current fiscal year.

The name will be changed to Alberta Health Care Program, he said, and the scope widened to include extended health benefits and more subsidies. He did not mention what new benefits will be proposed.

We regret
of showing you our Birkdale suits

Nothing seemed simpler than showing you all the fine points of a Birkdale suit in a photograph. The photographer was enthusiastic—the model too, but as you can see, they weren't alone in their enthusiasm. Each time the shutter clicked, you couldn't see the suit for the accessories—girls, girls, all over the place. Sorry about the photograph, but the photographer finally gave up and the model (not surprisingly) decided to keep the suit.

So we'll just have to paint you a word picture of a Birkdale suit, with its lean, handsome lines, expertly crafted in smooth worsteds or rangy masculine textures, styled with a vitality that fits both you and the occasion. Fine workmanship inside and out gives you bonuses like a lining you're not ashamed to show, pant-creases where they should be—permanently, a smooth natural shoulder line, all adding up to a fit that looks and feels good.

But don't take our word for it—come in and see these suits at Eaton's. Our Executive Shop is a solely masculine preserve, where you can try on a Birkdale suit in quiet comfort. We'll see you safely to the door—after that, it's open season!

Perrault Sounds Call

B.C. Liberals Looking to May Election

By GORDON DODD

The merry month of May is being warily regarded as reserved for the serious business of a provincial election by the B.C. Liberal Association, which Friday began its two-day biennial convention in Victoria.

But it is an election that is not wanted, Ray Perrault, Liberal leader in the legislature, said in spreading the word to the 200 delegates gathered at the Empress Hotel.

He gave the alert on the basis of "some strange" events in the legislature during the past two weeks.

Somewhat sarcastically, he concluded, "I suspect that the famous two-man committee has been meeting again—that the Premier has had a meeting with the minister of finance and by unanimous vote a decision has been made for an election in May."

Mr. Perrault maintained the people of British Columbia neither need nor want an election and that "the people... would rather spend the 3,000,000 election dollars in areas of real need." But the "committee of two" thought otherwise.

May or later, it has been tagged as a pre-election convention, with many of the resolutions passed by delegates seen as possible planks in the party's platform.

There was more spade-work on view when M.P.s, M.L.A.s and delegates divided themselves into three workshops on party organization, urban and municipal affairs and social welfare. Organizers dubbed the discussion as "fire-side politics," designed to get as many opinions as possible.

In his keynote address, Mr. Perrault called for an election, campaign based on convincing the public that British Columbia's future destiny can best be shaped under Liberal influence, as much as the criticism of the present Social Credit government.

"Our statement to the people of British Columbia in the coming months must be a statement about the rights of man for the 1950s, the 70s and the 80s," Mr. Perrault told delegates.

"Each day we see developing in this province an increasing tendency by this government to dwell in the past... to look in the past for their inspiration and guidance. We have entered a time when the solutions of the 30s, 40s and 50s simply cannot meet the challenges of the 60s, the 70s and the 80s," the Liberal leader said.

But the matter of boosting the present five-member Liberal team in the legislature into a position of power would not be an easy one, Mr. Perrault admitted.

and perhaps millions of dollars will be spent by the present government to assure its re-election.

"We know that in the government's scramble for continued political power, truth will be a martyr and facts will be distorted."

"We know," said Mr. Perrault, "that it won't be easy to campaign against a Social Credit leader who has spoken and voted on every known side of every known issue; who, in 1960 campaigned against those who would place power under public ownership and within six months had reversed his position."

It was an aging government, however, and the people of British Columbia wanted a change.

Murder Hearing On Friday

The preliminary hearing of a capital murder charge against 16-year-old Francis Otty Wollaston will begin in central magistrate's court Friday.

Wollaston, 734 Sea Drive, has been charged with the Feb. 10 murder of seven-year-old Linda Crocker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Crocker, Woodward Drive, Brentwood.

DATES AGREED

Prosecutor Louis Lindholm and defence counsel Lloyd McKenzie agreed on Friday and March 24 as dates for the hearing.

Wollaston, dressed in a dark suit, was in central magistrate's court Friday only briefly. He was escorted by a Central Saanich police officer.

To Stadium Disputes

Arbitration Board 'Not Whole Answer'

An arbitration board to settle any future disputes over stadium control between University of Victoria and the community is still not the whole answer, a director of the Victoria Sports Council said Friday.

The board, composed of Mayor Toome, Reeves Hugh Curtis of Saanich and Alan Cox of Oak Bay, and Dean Robert Wallace, was formed Friday.

It was conceived at a morning meeting of the executive of the Chamber of Commerce attended by Mayor Toome and Mr. Wallace, dean of administration.

COMPLAINTS

The move followed complaints that the stadium management committee was weighted in favor of the university. Three of its eight board members with the sports community and four the university.

Chamber president Richard Bower said Thursday he was concerned that "what, in effect, is happening is that the municipalities are making a gift of the stadium to the university."

NOT INTENTION

He pointed out that "this was surely not their intention to begin with."

The stadium was conceived as a centennial project. After the Friday meeting, Mr. Bower, Mayor Toome and Mr. Wallace issued a joint statement:

"As a group concerned with the public interest in the inter-municipal centennial stadium project, the executive committee of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce met with Mayor Alfred Toome and Dean Robert Wallace this morning.

IMPASSE POSSIBLE

"Recognizing that the eight-man proposed management board could possibly result in an impasse in the scheduling of use of the stadium to the detriment of the community at large, it was suggested by the committee that an arbitration board be set up to which such disputes could be referred."

Later Mr. Bower commented: "I am satisfied that all possible has been done to safeguard the interests of the municipalities and the community of Greater Victoria in the matter of the centennial stadium."

NOT OPTIMISTIC

But Art Burgess, a director of the Victoria Sports Council, was not so optimistic.

"We are accepting it because it is better to have part of a stadium than no stadium at all," he said. "I don't think the new method can really be very workable."

TOO UNWIELDY

Having to send every committee dispute to an arbitration board would be too unwieldy, he said.

"The mayor and the others won't want to be plagued with arbitrating disputes," he said, however, that the council is delighted that the committee "recognizes the problem."

Driver Admits Impairment

William Bailey apparently lost control of his car as he drove south on Douglas, Feb. 24, and the rear of his car hit a stop sign, prosecutor Peter Birkett told city court Friday.

Bailey, 890 Darwin, pleaded guilty to impaired driving and was remanded to March 4 for a pre-sentence report.

City Too Slow On Offer Bennett Hints

The city of Victoria waited too long to take up a government offer to pay half the cost of building a convention centre, Premier Bennett indicated in the legislature Friday.

Victoria M.L.A. Donald Smith (S.C.) asked the premier whether any further consideration is being given to an offer made by the government several years ago that it would pay 50 per cent of the cost if the city proceeded with the project.

The offer was not accepted at that time.

Mr. Bennett replied: "I think the city of Victoria is very well treated by this government."

The premier explained that the government is now spending millions of dollars along with the federal government on construction of the new provincial museum and archives complex.

He said the government is also spending "hundreds of thousands of dollars" through the Capital Improvement District Commission to beautify British Columbia's capital city.

Saanich School Board has awarded a $286,000 contract for a senior high school vocational wing to H. E. Fowler and Sons Ltd. of Victoria.

Tiniest Tender Lights the Way

By BOB PETHICK

The smallest lighthouse tender owned by the coast guard is operating out of Shoal Harbor.

Unlike her big sisters equipped with elaborate buoy-lifting gear, the diminutive Berens' principal weapons in the battle to keep navigation lights a-burning are tools, spare parts, batteries and technicians to make instant, on-the-spot repairs.

WIDE FIELD

The small but speedy Berens repairs and relights navigation aids on the Gulf Island and as far north as Nanaimo with an occasional flying trip across Georgia Strait up the Fraser River on a job.

With a 150-horsepower in-board-outboard engine the Berens can skitter across the water at close to 20 knots, carrying two men and repair and replacement equipment. It can usually make it to and from any point in its operating area within one day.

"It would take one of the big ones all day to do the same job we do in a couple of hours," said Charlie Ormiston, one of the technicians on the craft.

"She is saving us money," added superintendent of lights Capt. Bill Exley.

Except for the tools and equipment stowed neatly in appropriate places the Berens could easily give passengers the impression they were on a pleasure trip, but the ride is secondary as far as the crew is concerned.

The business begins when the fiberglass hull noses up against a rock bluff and a fleet-footed technician jump ashore to make a light check.

RESCUE READY

"Don't worry," said technician Ormiston as two passengers winced when the hull bumped the oncoming rocks. "The stem is completely rubber-coated for this kind of job."

Another seldom-discussed function of the radio-equipped Berens is its usefulness as a rescue craft. All the time it is in service the radio is tuned for distress calls.

The 20-footer ties up at its berth with the bow out ready to go with a twist of the starter.

Ultimately lighthouses and navigation aids will be cared for by helicopter, but until that day comes the Berens and others like her will be seen bustling about keeping the lights burning brightly.

Big Gun Stays East

Coast-to-Coast Duel Fizzles Out

An East Coast-West Coast artillery war has fizzled out by government decree.

The battle began when Halifax residents first learned that a six-inch gun mounted on McNab's Island was to be shipped to the West Coast and mounted at Fort Rodd Hill where an artillery museum is planned.

Fort Rodd Hill supervisor Jack Rippengale was intent on having the gun shipped but when questioned some time ago agreed that the gun was in Halifax and nailed down and that made some difference.

In a letter to Halifax Mayor Charles Vaughan, resources minister Laing said the gun would stay in Halifax. He was also definite in saying the gun had never seen service in the Niobe, a Canadian navy cruiser that operated out of Halifax during the First World War.

Halifax residents claimed the gun for their own because of its supposed connection with the Niobe.

Mr. Laing said no records

Never Aboard Niobe

have been found to tell where the McNab's gun was before 1939 but it was not the type used aboard the Niobe.

The minister said a good case could be made for preserving the old gun at Fort Rodd Hill but in view of Halifax sentiment it would stay here. A site on Citadel Hill or some other national park property has been suggested.

Branch Members Need Meaningful Programs

By JEAN SHARP
Canadian Press Women's Editor

The question of why Canada's national women's organizations are having trouble getting and keeping members seems to boil down to what local branches offer members to do.

The national officers argue that the clubs perform valuable services. They raise huge amounts of money, most of which is put to work in useful ways. They reached into Canada's remote corners and into other countries to offer help to a wide community of women. They act as educationist and voice of women's issues which they often bring to government attention.

They can do these things because they are big and country-wide, whether they give members a feeling of immediate participation or not.

At the same time, some of their traditional or even founding purposes have been taken from them by the welfare state and by the growth of auxiliaries.

"Every group has discovered the power and value of having a women's committee," said Mrs.

D. W. McGibbon of Toronto, IODE past president.

Outsiders say they join other groups because local branches of big organizations don't do anything, just hold meetings. Even when they know of larger aims and approve them in principle, they seem remote. The local branch may spend its time on money-raising projects and talks on political or legal issues and problems thousands of miles away where only a woman's money can work.

HELP HANDICAPPED
The sort of volunteer work—the knitting and bandage rolling—which could be accomplished at such a meeting is not in much demand now.

Many of the projects now fashionable among volunteers who are dieters and not mere joiners present special problems. They cannot utilize home-making skills as a rule, but require some training or supervision and sometimes sophisticated community awareness.

Volunteers are working with the handicapped, the immigrant who cannot speak English, the underprivileged, the ill. They work on specific local projects, work for the arts.

If the big groups can do some things best because of their size, there are other areas of work which pose a dilemma for them.

How do you tailor projects to interest 110 branches? How do you persuade volunteers they need training? What do you do for the member who enjoys the gregariousness of a meeting and does not want to work more or less on her own? How do you mobilize the volunteers and set up training which will apply in rural, urban and town areas scattered across the country?

The big groups share many, many of these problems with local clubs and one answer is that they continue to encourage the relative independence of their individual branches. IODE chapters in the Maritimes have begun to work with school dropouts.

GIVE TRAINING COURSES
The big groups have traditionally been associated with particular fields of effort, rather than a collection of scattered interests. How to retain cohesiveness and use size and organization in a changed world still remains a puzzle to which few solutions are offered.

The Ontario Business and Professional Women's Clubs have run a series of cram courses to give leadership training to members throughout the province.

The Council of Jewish Women has made structural changes in its organization which immediately past president Mrs. N. I. Zemans of Calgary said she hoped will help.

She said they may be easier for the 7,000-member council to handle than for bigger groups, but she feels all organizations must retrench in some ways or perish.

"We must give people more things to do which are meaningful. Everyone says we can't get volunteers. I ask, what are you giving people to do? What are your standards and training?"

The council puts emphasis on training, on broad participation, on starting services which a community may eventually take over.

They now work on a decentralized system, setting up national committees in various parts of the country to create programs, offer teaching tools and training. A joint planning committee of members from across the country meets at least once a year to discuss projects.

SEEK WIDEST INTEREST
Mrs. Zemans said the system sometimes slows down work, but is intended to involve a maximum number of members and narrow the gap between national and local levels.

"A woman should have knowledge of her own organization and get to know the total community and what kind of an issue is behind the job she is doing. That may be the added dimension the young are looking for."

"A lot of what I'm saying is not taking place. I suspect that if a lot of organizations don't do it, they'll be out of existence."

Marion V. Royce, director of the women's bureau of the federal department of labor, summed it up in general terms. "I do not think democratic institutions can be maintained without the personal participation in community life which voluntary organizations make possible."

"To be sure, their programs must be molded to the realities of life in our day. Sometimes, however, I think we get bogged down in trying to intellectualize the role of such groups, whereas new initiatives consist in relevant and imaginative expression of human kindness and social concern intelligently directed."

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I'm writing about that grief-stricken college boy whose sweetheart confessed she had had intimate relations with a high school lad. I know the type. I'll bet he had affairs with at least six girls while he was in high school. He arrives at college and is disappointed not to find an abundance of "white flower" girls. Where have all the lovely flowers gone? To the high school boys like "Grief Stricken"—I'll bet.

If these creeps think so highly of virgins why don't they leave a few around? Can you imagine a girl who had had six or seven affairs demanding that her fiancé be 100 per cent pure? The fellow would fall down laughing.

A male with sex experience is called a lover. A woman with sex experience is called a tramp. Men want many lily white maidens but they also like to take their fun where they find it. Such hypocrisy makes me sick. MISS K.Q.

Dear Miss K.Q.: If I had your address I'd send you a get well card. Thanks for a good letter. You speak the truth, Lady.

Dear Ann Landers: I have worked for this firm for 12 years. I started at a modest salary because the boss assured me that I would "grow with the company." The company has grown and I've made a significant contribution. Yet I've received exactly one salary increase—four years ago.

There are no bonus arrangements, no stock options, no chances that I will ever share in the profits. I'm on a straight salary, plus a turkey for Christmas. Whenever I talk to my boss about a raise he tells me I'm loyal, and invaluable to the company. He lays on the compliments, then says I should be happy to work for people who appreciate me.

I have three children to put through college. When I ask my wife if I should leave she says, "A bird in the hand..." What do you advise?—SOFT SOAPED

Dear Soaped: They won't take birds as payment for college tuition anymore, or compliments either.

Look around for a company that can use your talents. Equally important is the quality of people you'd be working for and with. Be selective. When you find the combination tell your boss good-bye, and next Christmas send him a turkey.

Dear Ann: When I first married Jim he always seemed to disappear when guests arrived. He'd either go to the basement and repair the lawn mower or out to the garage and change the oil in the car, or upstairs to rummage around in old papers and magazines.

It caused me a lot of embarrassment and he knew it, but he just wouldn't change so I gave up inviting company at night.

Now that our children are teenagers it's the same story. When Carla told us a boy friend would be coming over and she wanted dad to meet him I knew what would happen. And it did.

Winning Contract

By HOWARD SCHENKEN and RICHARD L. FREY

Passes are less dramatic than bold bids, but if you value points more than plaudits we recommend them. South should have trumped up to day's contract despite West's cunning pass, but his task would have been a lot easier had West tipped off his hand.

After South had opened one heart, West rightly figured that the odds did not favor doubling for takeout—though this would be a possible manoeuvre had E-W not already passed—since E-W were probably out-gunned and could at best hope to make a partial. With E-W silent, N-S bid smoothly to the reasonable heart game.

With the opening lead of the diamond king, the simplest plan is to slap on dummy's diamond ace and immediately ruff a diamond. Declarer continues with two more diamond ruffs, using dummy's club as entries. This standard "dummy reversal" makes dummy the master hand and E-W cannot collect more than one spade, one trump and one club. An equally effective—though slightly more complicated—plan is to aim to ruff a spade and a club on the board, but to achieve this declarer has to take care to duck a spade into West's hand, since if East were allowed to lead a trump return from him could cause trouble.

South, however, was an optimist who could envision a couple of overtricks if everything went smoothly. He decided that favorable breaks in hearts and clubs might allow him to shed one of dummy's spades on the thirteenth club and claim twelve tricks. On the opening lead, therefore, declarer took the ace and led dummy's trump ten, letting it ride around to West. Had West released the king, declarer might still have made his contract via a dummy reversal, but West was in no hurry to grab his trump winner, and played low. Swallowing the bait, declarer led another trump from dummy—and the game contract evaporated. With two rounds of trumps already played, there was no way for South to keep West off lead while he set the stage for a spade and club ruff, and as soon as West got on lead, his cashing the trump king left declarer a trick short.

Garden Notes

Beginners Only

By M. V. CHESNUT

In a recent column I conducted what might be called a horticultural kindergarten for novice gardeners, touching sketchily on the differences between annuals, biennials and perennials. Today I think we might back-track a bit and take a second look at the annual flowers.

These, as you will remember, are the ones which sprout from seed, grow up, come into bloom, set seed and die all in a single season; these are the plants we look to for creating a quick, if temporary, blaze of color in our flower beds. The easy way to plant up a bed is to buy the started plants by the dozen from greenhouse men who specialize in raising bedding plants for sale, but it is quite possible and practicable to raise your own from seed.

In the seed catalogues, you'll find the annual flowers classified again into hardy annuals (H.A.) and half-hardy (H.H.A.). Actually, these terms are not a measure of hardiness, for some of the half-hardy kinds can take any thing the weather can dish out, while a few grouped in the hardy class—the nasturtium is a good example—will pack it up at the slightest touch of frost.

In practice, the terms hardy and half-hardy are used in the catalogues to indicate which seeds may be sown directly in the garden outdoors, and which, needing a longer season of growth, should be given an early start by sowing the seeds indoors or under glass.

A few of the kinds which can be popped into the ground outdoors as soon as the soil has warmed up are zinnias, sweet peas, ten-week stocks, annual scabious, candytuft, nasturtiums, morning glories, Shirley poppies, sunflowers, godolite, clarkia and calceolarias.

While the following kinds can be grown successfully from an outdoor sowing, their blooming period would come too late in the season for ordinary decorative or bedding purposes. For early color in the flower beds, then, these should be given an early start indoors or under glass: Snapdragons, ageratum, China asters, cockscomb, annual pink, pansies, violas, petunias, salvia, verbena and the African and French marigolds.

Some of these need an indoor start for another reason. Petunias, for instance, grow fairly rapidly, but the seed is finer than dust and about three times as costly as gold. It is wasteful and impractical to sow such fine seed outdoors, where the grains of soil are many times bigger than the seeds and where even a gentle rainfall would batter the tiny seedlings into the ground. Petunias are always raised under sheltered conditions and grow on until they are sturdy enough to stand up under the weather.

By the same token, annual poppy seeds are never started indoors. This plant makes a long, slender tap root with a great number of delicate root hairs branching off, so fine as to be almost invisible. Because of the fragile nature of these root hairs, it is extremely difficult to transplant a poppy plant successfully, and for this reason, the seeds are always sown in the spot where the plants are to bloom.

Dropouts Too Good?

SYDNEY HARRIS

If Edison had not dropped out of school at the early age he was, it is likely that he would have turned out to be the prolific inventor he was. Great inventors and innovators, on the whole, have been more hindered than helped by formal schooling.

The chief reason for this, it seems to me, is the intense and perpetual "fear of failure" that the school instills in the pupil. The pupil is more than anything afraid to fail—but the truly creative mind is prepared to fail and fall again in order to succeed once in a new and different way.

My children attend a school that gives no grades and no competitive rankings, for the first half-dome years; at first I study at the University of California, testing part-time inventors, it was found that the most inventive of the inventors got a shockingly low score of only six on the Terman Concept Mastery Test.

He got this low score because, as the researchers pointed out, "he was more than willing to impart any information he had in his head, including wrong information or hunches." It was his willingness to try anything, his lack of fear of being wrong, that made him so productive an inventor.

And it is a known fact that the brightest and most creative of pupils often get a worse score on some tests than less bright pupils—because the creative ones detect subtleties and nuances in the questions that the less bright ones are not even aware of. The average pupil is soon conditioned to answer "Right" or "Wrong"; the superior pupil sees the shades of gray in between and his answers are more qualified.

Emotionally, too, the inventive minds are able to tolerate disorder and ambiguity, while the average mind becomes upset if things are not neatly pigeon-holed. The school values rigidity within a closed system; but all innovation comes from people who are open to newness, who question all closed systems, and who don't mind ambiguous answers. One wonders how many dropouts have been simply "too good" for their schools.

Racers in Demand

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Every auto racer in Europe will be employed by Hollywood this year—in the two big films on the dangerous sport, starring respectively, Steve McQueen and James Garner. Garner, like Steve, is a car racing buff, and also like his rival, drives a sports Ferrari. James recently had an accident in his, and the car is currently undergoing repairs. Naturally he will not be doing his own racing in Grand Prix, but to look right for the role he is taking lessons from Bob Boardman, one of California's leading drivers. Steve is a fine racer, but even for him they will use a double for very rough stuff.

When Marlon Brando was asked how come he was so tractable, taking direction from Charlie Chaplin in The Countess from Hong Kong, Marlon replied, "Age is a great conformer." Sad, but true... I can't believe the printed George Abbott, well into his seventies, knows how to live with his work. He lives in Florida during the winter on account of the sun and the golf. But he is now combining a spot of work—the new Shari Lewis play for George, The Well Dressed Liar, opens this week in Palm Beach. He hopes to bring it ultimately to Broadway. This will be Shari's first play on the Great White Way.

Elizabeth Ashley is still saying "No" to film offers. All she wants to be is Mrs. George Peppard and that will happen April 17—unless his Tobruk picture with Rock Hudson runs behind schedule... And the new Mrs. James Farentino—she's Michele Lee—she's Michele Ashley's first husband, also reckons she'll be a good wife first and an actress second. Michele was supposed to leave for New York and a television guesting the day after she was married. She cancelled.

ARTHUR HOPPE Reports

H-Bomb Found!

Hope had been all but abandoned when an American search team at last located that was "an oppressed indigent native population attempting to throw off the yoke of colonialist Imperialism."

Panza said thank you, he was too busy to join anything at the moment. Stories appeared that Panza would have a delivery system in four years. The hawks in the Pentagon called for "a pre-emptive first strike." The Statisticians in the Kremlin demanded "a war of national liberation. The world is on the brink of nuclear annihilation."

Fortunately, an American private (his name was Oliver Drab) passed by one day and asked Panza why he wanted the bomb anyway.

"It's magic," said Panza. "Not only is it a good coffee table, but if I hold up my hammer over it, everybody leaves me alone."

Private Drab pulled out a Sears-Roebuck catalogue, showed Panza a picture of a $21.95 genuine maple coffee table and pledged that if he'd swap, everybody would still leave him alone.

So they swapped. Private Drab became a hero for restoring the bomb to a grateful United States. And, sure enough, the great powers never bothered Panza again.

Moral: The magical thing about nuclear deterrents is that if you have them, you need them. And if you don't, you don't.

There was nothing for it but to declare Panza an official nuclear power. He was offered a permanent seat in the Security Council and a life chair at the Geneva Disarmament Conference table. Russia accused the U.S. of "proliferating nuclear weapons" and invited Panza to join the Cominform, the Cominform and the Warsaw Pact. The U.S. accused Russia of "disturbing the delicate power balance" and invited Panza to join NATO and SEATO. Red China sent 543

Hydro Stung —NDP

By BARRY JOHNSON

B.C. Hydro is being sold down the river by contractors clearing land to make way for the Columbia River project, Randolph Harding (NDP, Kaslo-Slocan) told the legislature Thursday.

Mr. Harding, speaking in the debate on the premier's estimates, was hammering at his familiar theme of fair treatment for the Arrow Lakes settlers whose property is being expropriated. He said Hydro pays contractors upwards of $400 an acre for clearing land and pays settlers only $100 an acre for cleared land.

CURRENT COST

The settlers are entitled to the value of cleared land for all their holdings, he said. That is, the cost of clearing, plus the land's initial cost.

Premier Bennett then rose to quote from a document handed to him by Agriculture Minister Frank Richter.

He said the agriculture department is clearing land in the Kootenays at a cost of $38.10 an acre.

'RIDICULOUS'

"You'd better come up to the people of the Arrow Lakes and tell them that," Mr. Harding said. "If the department can do it for $38, why do we pay $400 or $500?"

Some clearing goes as high as $1,400 an acre, he said.

"Hydro is getting sold down the river."

Changing his tack, the premier then said: "To compare the two is just ridiculous. The Arrow Lakes clearing is not the same as farm clearing."

OTHER CUTS

"No it isn't," said Mr. Harding. "Up there (at the Arrow Lakes) they just cut the trees down and burn them."

Earlier Mr. Harding referred to a scheduled March 21 meeting between the premier, as Hydro fiscal agent, and the power company, at which Mr. Bennett said he would recommend natural and manufactured gas rate reductions.

"If you can make those reductions, I have several others you can make at the same time," Mr. Harding said.

'GIVE ME MEMO'

He then launched his oft-repeated plea for itemized accounting of expropriation payments.

"Can you give me one good reason why they shouldn't have them?"

The premier shook his head indicating he did not intend to answer and said: "You give me a memo and I'll take it over to the meeting."

HEADHEADS

Mr. Harding also accused the government of a "major blunder" in not clearing reservoirs of lakes to be created by the Columbia project.

"This will be a major resort area," he said. "And tourists will see miles and miles of headheads."

"This is poor economics and we will live to regret it."

'Nothing To Add' On Span

Liberal leader Ray Perrault asked Premier Bennett in the legislature Thursday whether any plans are in the air for a new First Narrows Crossing and was rewarded with a curt: "I have nothing to add."

Speaking in the debate on the premier's estimates, Mr. Perrault reported a Vancouver alderman told him the premier said to the alderman he "would be glad to tell him what a bridge is and what approaches are."

Mr. Perrault asked whether the highways department had submitted a plan to the premier, if any proposals have been made and if the premier intended to enter negotiations with Ottawa.

REJECTION

But when the premier rose to answer his questions he said: "I have nothing further to add to what has already been said."

"We do not accept" Mr. Perrault's recommendations that the Public Utilities Commission be expanded and study Hydro rates, said the premier in reply to another question.

Mr. Perrault assailed the government for announcing Hydro rate reductions "preceded by a political message paid for by public funds."

Scandals of Past Rattle House

By RON COLLISTER
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—The secrets of 20 years of security scandals almost fell into the lap of Parliament by accident in a furious debate on the Spencer spy-suspect case Friday.

Justice Minister Lucien Cardin tore into Tory leader John Diefenbaker over his handling, as prime minister, of the "Monseigneur case."

Mr. Cardin, it is speculated here, meant the Munsinger case.

Oiga Munsinger, according to rumors that have swirled

around the capital for several years, was hustled out of Canada to East Germany after an affair with a Tory cabinet minister.

Miss Munsinger, the story goes, was a clerk at a Communist embassy.

She was deported after some compromising pictures, involving her and the minister, came to light.

The case was allowed to die because only sex, and not security, was involved.

While the Liberals indicate they are sitting on security secrets of the Tory era, the Tories indicate they have enough on the Liberals, during their pre-1957 period of power.

In the Commons, Tory leader Diefenbaker said if there was to be a full and complete investigation of security in Canada, it should go back to 1944.

"Yes, I want to cover that period," he said. "I want to see it fully investigated."

"The Prime Minister laughs, but I want to see that we make available to a commission behind closed doors the revelations that have found their way to Washington and have been placed in evidence there in that body on security."

What was Mr. Diefenbaker driving at?

He may have been referring to the pre-1957 Liberal government's actions in the case of Herbert Norman, the Canadian diplomat who fell to his death in Cairo.

Mr. Norman's name had been dragged into hearings before

CPA Jet Falls, Burns at Tokyo

TOKYO (CP-AP)—A Canadian Pacific Airlines jetliner groping for a landing in fog hit the approach lights at Tokyo's International Airport Friday night and smashed down in flames, killing 64 persons, many of them Canadian residents.

BOAC Jet Crashes In Japan

TOKYO (Reuters)—A BOAC 747 jetliner crashed on Mount Fuji about 80 miles south of Tokyo today, reported the Japan Broadcasting Company.

It was not immediately known how many passengers and crew members were on board the plane or what flight course the plane was following.

A television bulletin said that the crash was reported by the Japan air force.

Britain, U.S. Recognize New Ghana

By REUTERS

Britain and the United States recognized Friday the new regime in Ghana, which was facing growing hostility from a group of African states backing deposed president Kwame Nkrumah.

London and Washington announcements of recognition brought to 14 the number of states which have recognized the military leaders who overthrew Nkrumah eight days ago. Ghana is a former British colony.

PROTEST SENT

Accra, meanwhile, sent a sharp protest to British allies, claiming the Ghanaian embassy staff in the capital, Conakry, had been placed under house arrest.

The protest announced the closing of the embassy to Guinea, whose President Sekou Toure has said Nkrumah could be considered Guinean head of state and secretary-general of the ruling Democratic party.

The eight survivors, three of them with Canadian addresses, were reported out of danger early today.

At least 21 Canadian residents were listed aboard the flight and most of them were presumed killed.

CREW DEAD

The crew was among those confirmed killed. So was the off-duty stewardess, identified as Rebecca Yue-chien Chao of Hong Kong.

Ripping out 15 of the beacon towers jutting out of Tokyo bay on the approach to the runway, the giant DC-8 hit a breakwater wall at the edge of the runway and then tore down the runway, scattering wreckage for nearly a mile before coming to a halt.

VANCOUVER PILOT

The $6,000,000, four-engine plane, bound from Hong Kong for Vancouver and South America, was under the command of Capt. Cecil N. McNeal, 57, of Vancouver. A former bush pilot and a widower, he had been with the airline since 1938.

Known to have survived are Freda Yeake, 30, of Edmonton and Vancouver; Bernard James Redisky, 23, Kimberley, B.C., and Mrs. Sau Jen Chung, whose Canadian address was not immediately known.

SERIOUSLY HURT

Miss Yeake, an Air Canada sales agent, was taken to hospital with head, arm and leg injuries. Although seriously hurt, she was conscious.

MORE

In an interview from her hospital bed, she told a reporter: "I just kept praying. I just kept praying. . . . When the plane hit something, passengers began stepping on everybody who still had their seat belts on and couldn't move. . . . It was so dark. . . . A fire broke out."

'TERRIBLY LUCKY'

Redisky said: "My first thought was to get out as fast as I possibly could. . . . I'm terribly, terribly lucky to be alive."

The dead crew members, in addition to McNeal, were first officer C. F. K. (Kel) Mews.

Queer Quirk of Fate Kills Victoria Woman

By DOBOTHY WROTONSKI

One of Victoria's most dynamic personalities, Mrs. H. C. MacDonald lost her life in the shocking CPA air crash at fog-bound Tokyo airport Friday.

Only by a queer quirk of fate was Norma MacDonald on the fateful plane.

On a trip, buying for her newly established arts and crafts centre in the remodelled Century Inn, Mrs. MacDonald had been in London, Moscow, Peking and Hong Kong.

Her plans were to go to Korea from Hong Kong. But her visa hadn't come through to Hong Kong as she had expected.

A cable to her sister, Miss Frances Jordan, told of her sudden change of plans and that she would be arriving home Friday afternoon instead of next Tuesday.

Norma MacDonald became widely known in Victoria during her 20 years of living here. She purchased the Oak Bay Beach Hotel from the late Maj. William Merton in 1946 and with members of her family operated the hotel until selling it three years ago.

It was during this time she became president of the International Hotel Association and in this capacity circled the globe several times.

What is not so well known about Norma MacDonald is her liberal sponsoring of the arts.

She was a benefactor helping many young people on their way. Norma married H. C. MacDonald and came from Winnipeg to Vancouver where her husband was in real estate. They moved to Seattle where they started in the hotel business. Mr. MacDonald died there.

Man Charged

LBJ's Life Threatened

By NORMAN RUNNION
United Press International

It was shortly after 8 a.m. Friday that the Washington-bound train bearing Oswald H. Pick, 27, of Clifton, N.J., rolled into Philadelphia's 30th Street station.

Waiting for Pick on the station platform were some 60 agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, which two and one-half years ago had become chillingly familiar with a 24-year-old man named Lee Harvey Oswald.

The charge against Pick: threatening to assassinate President Lyndon B. Johnson.

FRENEY

Behind the arrest lay two frenzied hours of drama that began with a phone call to FBI headquarters in Washington at 5:45 a.m. EST.

The call came from New York. The voice on the other end said he was heading to Washington to assassinate a "high government official." Then he hung up.

As an FBI agent said later in New York: "We launched an immediate and intensive investigation."

The next call came 45 minutes later—at 6 a.m. EST. This time the caller was more specific. His target was President Johnson.

Firing Inquiry Promised

Pearson Calls Spy Suspect

By RON COLLISTER

OTTAWA—Prime Minister Pearson Friday night phoned an alleged spy and staged a historic retreat on a judicial inquiry into his dismissal from the civil service.

Justice Minister Cardin sat bowed and dejected as Mr. Pearson overruled his earlier refusal to allow an inquiry in the case of spy-suspect Victor Spencer.

Mr. Pearson's statement said the inquiry, to be conducted in camera by a judge, probably in Vancouver, would deal with the "nature of criminal and subversion benefits."

MUCH WIDER

Spencer, 57, was fired from his job in the Vancouver post office, without pension, for his part in a case that saw the expulsion of two Soviet diplomats last year.

A spokesman for Mr. Pearson said the judge would not examine the security aspects of the case.

However, there are already rumbles that the Opposition will push for a much wider inquiry.

MORE FIREWORKS

Former Tory justice minister Davie Fulton said an inquiry should establish if there was enough evidence to fire Spencer.

"How can the inquiry avoid taking that question into consideration?" He asked.

More fireworks are expected when the debate on the justice estimates resumes Monday March 7.

The government is already feeling the pinch of a financial crisis because, from March 7, it has had no authority for spending and is trying to pay bills out of carryover money.

"REAL TROUBLE"

Already, a few casual workers are not getting paid. "From Monday night, we will be in real trouble," said government House leader George McRae.

Earlier, in the Commons, Mr. Pearson announced that he would phone Spencer in Vancouver and verify a telegram he had sent to New Democrat David Lewis asking for an inquiry into his case.

Mr. Pearson invited Mr. Lewis to monitor the call, but Mr. Lewis declined.

LAWYERS LISTEN

The call lasted two and a half minutes, from the official residence at 24 Sussex Drive to a Vancouver law office, where Spencer was located.

Mr. Pearson was alone. With Spencer were his lawyer, Harry

Favreau Withdraws Perjury Charge Against Neilsen

By FRANK KELLY
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Privy council president Guy Favreau Friday accused Tory Erik Nielsen of "lying under oath" during the Dorion enquiry.

Under terrific pressure from Mr. Nielsen and the rest of the Opposition, the beleaguered former justice minister withdrew his words an hour later—but not until he was faced with backing them up or losing his seat.

The House tottered on the edge of complete chaos when the two great antagonists in the famous Dorion-Rivard affair locked horns in a bitter debate.

"UNEQUIVOCALLY"

At the end Mr. Favreau, who accused Mr. Nielsen of twice giving false evidence to Chief Justice Dorion, withdrew all his words "unequivocally."

The matter arose during a sharp exchange during the debate on the estimated expenditures of the justice department.

Mr. Nielsen interjected some reference to the Dorion probe—convened by the government to investigate allegations of bribery designed to get bail for narcotics king Lucien Rivard.

STUNG

Obviously stung by the mention of Rivard, Mr. Favreau jumped to his feet and stated Mr. Nielsen had "on two occasions said things that did not represent the truth."

Mr. Nielsen said Mr. Favreau had accused him of perjury and asked the former justice minister to withdraw his statement.

Mr. Favreau refused, and repeated his accusation. He suggested Mr. Nielsen turn the whole matter over to the Commons committee on privileges and elections.

RISK BEAT

Mr. Nielsen said the rules demanded that Mr. Favreau back up his statement or risk losing his seat. He was joined by several Conservative and New Democrat members.

Two Men Swap Cancer Tissue

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Cancerous tissue from two men threatened with early death by a rare bone malignancy was traded Friday. The exchange, they hoped, might extend their lives.

Tissue from the right lung of Robert F. Allen, 38, and from the left collarbone area of Harry T. Griffith, 63, was imbedded in each other's thigh.

The experimental surgery performed by Dr. Sigmund H. Nadler at Roswell Park Memorial Institute, was completed in less than two hours.

Allen, of Tucson, Ariz., and Griffith, of Flourtown, Pa., volunteered to submit to the experiment after doctors told each he had not long to live. Both are afflicted with a deadly form of cancer known as osteogenic sarcoma.

Dr. Nadler said it would be 10 or 12 days before it could be determined whether each patient would develop a resistance against the other's foreign cancer cells. Cancer has spread in the bodies of Allen, who has lost a left leg to the disease, and Griffith, whose left collar bone was removed by surgery.

Cardin Bucks Boss on Crime Probe

By FRANK KELLY

OTTAWA—Justice Minister Lucien Cardin told the Commons yesterday that a royal commission "is not the answer" to fighting organized crime in Canada.

His rejection of a super crime probe came just one day after prime minister indicated in the Commons the government was prepared to recommend to the provinces that one be set up.

Now if Prime Minister Pearson gives in to demands of Quebec Justice Minister Claude Wagner for a royal commission on crime it will be over the advice of his own federal justice minister.

Mr. Cardin made his statement in the middle of a detailed account of steps the government is taking to greatly stiffen bankruptcy laws and investigation.

"The problem of crime in Canada is so serious and difficult that it is not time for panic. It is not time to run in two or three directions at the same time."

"Perhaps the appointment of a royal commission would be one method to deal with it."

"The government has stated it will look into this matter, but my feeling is that this is not the time for panic."

"I think the attorneys general individually and collectively with the assistance of the federal government, are the people most knowledgeable and have the best position to deal with this great problem."

"The hon. gentlemen have asked for a royal commission, but I feel this is not the answer," he said.

Mr. Cardin described the current bankruptcy act as "very complicated, awkward and obsolete." Then he listed "nine steps the government is taking to tighten it up."

Among these are revisions to greatly strengthen the powers of the superintendent of bankruptcy, who will have the power to call witnesses, obtain search warrants and seize documents.

UBC Wins Junior Basketball Talent Too Much for Victoria

It Was Rugged Under Those Baskets

Traffic gets heavy under basket but UBC's Dave Rice is equal to it. Here Rice comes up with rebound despite efforts of Chinooks' Barney Spaven (44).

Brian Brumwell and Ken Jackson (34). Rice scored 14 points in Jayvees' 58-48 victory.—(William E. John)

By JIM TAYLOR

UBC Jayvees took the Canadian junior men's basketball championship away from the Victoria Chinooks Friday night, and despite the excitement it was like watching an old movie.

This time the score was 58-48, but that was the only real difference between this one and the last four times the clubs have met. Otherwise, Norm Watt's Jayvees stuck to the pattern they play so well.

BIG CROWD

Playing before a sellout crowd of 1,500, they went ahead early, put on the pressure every time they scored, then sat back and forced Chinooks to come to them. They can do it, because they are loaded with talent.

Chinooks stayed with them for 10 minutes last night and were up, 9-8. Then Brian Brumwell missed a layup that would have built the lead to three points, Jayvees came down with the ball, and boom.

NO REPLY

Sam Vandermeulen, Dave Rice, Ken Kern, Bob Molinski and Vandermeulen scored 10 points without a reply, Jayvees had a nine point lead, and that was that.

They came out of the half leading, 33-22, and Chinooks played them dead even in the second half. But you simply cannot spot this team any kind of a lead. There is simply too much balance.

ALL-STARS

Vandermeulen and Kern made the tournament all-star team, along with Ron Bowker and Ken Jackson of Chinooks and Wayne Haldane, the little outside shooter from Mt. Royal Junior College Cougars of Calgary. All were unanimous choices, and the four who played last night showed why.

Bowker and Jackson, last members of the original Chinook team, scored 18 and 15 points, respectively, in their last games as juniors. Vandermeulen got 19 and simply destroyed Chinooks on the boards. Kern, still hobbling on a bad ankle, scored 11.

NO PERCENTAGE

Chinooks, who shot 55 per cent in beating the Cougars Thursday, could do no better than 34 per cent last night. They got the shots all right—55 of them—but you only get so many misses against the Jayvees before you get killed.

When it was over, Canadian Amateur Basketball Association president Luke Moyle of Vancouver called the tournament "the greatest junior competition ever."

GOOD GATES

Financially, it seems assured of success, and the response here would seem to lend support to an idea that Victoria could be the host of the Dominion final on alternate years with an eastern city.

No matter where the competition is held next season, the Jayvees should be a strong contender to keep the national title. Of the 10 players last night, Watt loses only two—Bob Molinski and Al Quinn—unless the senior Thunderbirds reach down for TEN STARS.

"I haven't really got what you'd call a starting five," Watt said. "I've just got 10 guys who play well."

It was perhaps the greatest accolade of all for the best junior team in Canadian basketball.

UBC Jayvees—Phil Langley 2, Joe Carter 4, Ron Molinski 3, Sam Vandermeulen 18, Ken Kern 11, Dave Rice 14, Al Quinn 10.

Victoria Chinooks—Ron Haldane 19, Brian Brumwell 18, Ken Jackson 14, Wayne Haldane 10, Ron Bowker 18.

Trophies for All

Trophies came in bunches for UBC Jayvees last night. Here Canadian Amateur Basketball Association president Luke Moyle presents UBC's

Bob Molinski with one of individual trophies received by each Jayvee as coach Norm Watt applauds in background.—(William E. John)

Leafs Take 8-1 Trimming

Canucks Zero In on Holland

VANCOUVER — Vancouver Canucks were just too much for rookie goaltender Gary Holland, with or without his face mask here Friday night.

Holland and his Victoria Maple Leaf mates were down, 4-0, after the first period of their Western Hockey League game so Holland decided to go the rest of the route without the face covering that has become popular in the last few years with goalies.

The switch didn't help—Canucks went on to score four more goals for an 8-1 victory.

The seven-goal difference equaled the worst beating Leafs had taken all season. They lost, 10-3, to the same Canucks last Jan. 23 with the peripatetic Al Millar in goal.

Canucks, really buzzing, kept pouring in on Holland, playing his sixth pro game since leaving Minn. Flor Bombers junior team.

Canadian Ski Team Flashes in Nationals

ROSSLAND, B.C. (CP)—Running under ideal conditions on their home mountain, members of Canada's national team made a clean sweep of the downhill races at the Canadian Alpine ski championships here Friday.

Scott Henderson led four fellow-members of the national A team to victory in the men's downhill and Rossland's Nancy Greene, a member of the women's A team, edged out two Americans to win the women's downhill race.

Miss Greene flashed down the treacherous two-mile granite mountain course in 2:07.3, finishing a close second with 2:07.7 was Suzanne Caffee of the Mammoth Ski Club at Mammoth Lake, Calif.

Miss Caffee's teammate, Joan Hannah, was nearly a full second behind, finishing in 2:08.6. Karen Dokka of Vancouver was fourth with 2:09.9.

Henderson, of Banff, Alta., was only one-tenth of a second ahead of Peter Duncan of 2nd. Tremblant, Que. In winning the men's downhill, Henderson's time over a longer 2 1/2-mile course was 2:27.8 and Duncan's 2:27.9.

Keith Shepherd of Revelstoke, B.C., Gerry Rinaldi of Kimberley, B.C., and Ron Hebron of Vancouver, all members of the national A team, finished third, fourth and fifth respectively with times of 2:28.5, 2:29.6 and 2:29.7.

Miss Greene holds a tremendous advantage heading into today's slalom race on neighboring Red Mountain.

The downhill race is one of her weaker events, but she is classed as one of the world's top three in the slalom.

Seals Defeat Baltimore, 4-2

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Wings Mike Harvey and George Swarbrick each scored twice to lead San Francisco Seals to a 4-2 victory over the Baltimore Clippers Friday night in an interlocking hockey game.

The victory, the third in 11 tries for San Francisco of the Western League against American League opponents, snapped a four-game losing streak for the Seals.

The Clippers took a 1-0 lead at 2:41 in the first period on Doug Harvey's screened slap shot, but Swarbrick's first at 14:09 tied the game.

Mike Harvey's first goal for the Seals gave San Francisco the lead at 10:26 of the second period, but 31 seconds later Bill Knibbs again tied the match.

In the final period, Swarbrick scored a tap-in at 6:47 and Doug Harvey's second goal with 53 seconds left in the game was shot into an untended net.

The Seals, last in the WHL, moved to within one point of fifth-place Los Angeles. They remain 11 points behind fourth-place Seattle and a playoff berth.

Jim Norris' Two Sons In Firm

CHICAGO (AP)—Management of Chicago Black Hawks will be continued by the club's board of directors with the family of the late James D. Norris maintaining his financial interest.

This was announced by Arthur Wirtz, partner of Norris, 59, who died last Friday from a heart condition.

The Hawk board of directors includes Wirtz and his two sons, Michael and William.

Wirtz also said the Chicago Stadium Corp. has a specific buyer for its St. Louis Arena, elevating the way for a National Hockey League entry there.

The buyer was not identified. St. Louis was one of six cities granted a franchise for the 1967-68 season in expansion of the present six-club NHL. April 5 was set for selection of a group to take the franchise.

March snowfall in Nanaimo warned drivers that even snow tires are not proof against skidding, as driver of car on Jingle Pot Road, above, found out. At the same time spring bulbs shot up in Bowen Park through mantle of snow to give like-

Upper Island Shows Drop In Birth Rate

COURTENAY—The birth rate is down, heart disease continues as the leading killer and venereal disease is on the increase, Dr. G. A. Gibson, director of the Upper Island health unit told the group's annual meeting.

The annual report showed births in 1965 totalled 821 compared with 959 in 1964, "which when applied to the increase in population reflects a falling birth rate for two years in succession."

Of the 209 deaths, heart disease accounted for 62. Deaths from cancer were down to 23 in 1965 from 40 in 1964, but lung cancer is on the increase, Dr. Gibson said.

"This is not good because lung cancer can be prevented." Eleven of the 23 accidental deaths resulted from highway accidents. The report suggested more investigations into the circumstances of highway deaths should be carried out.

"Too often alcohol is blamed as a weak explanation when other factors in accident causation are ignored."

Veneral disease rose despite efforts in education on this matter, the report said.

A total of 210 cases of venereal disease were recorded in 1965 compared with 187 in 1964, 127 in 1963 and 94 in 1962. The report said a significant fact was the age breakdown in reported cases. There was an increase in every age group with the exception of the 21 to 30 age group which was down by 13.

Biggest increase was in the under-20 years group with 47 cases in 1965, more than twice the 1964 total of 16.

The 31 to 40 age group also took a steady upward climb from 19 to 40 cases and the group from 51 and up doubled from 2 to 4. Of the infections 93 showed the source to be local.

Sixty cases of infectious hepatitis were reported and were mostly in areas without adequate sewage systems or water supplies.

The report suggests that only a small number of accidental poisonings were reported to the health unit with 35 cases being recorded in 1965 compared with 12 in 1964.

Most frequent age group involved was one year to five years with the most common products swallowed listed as aspirin, sedatives, birth control pills, household cleansers and polishes.

NANAIMO — RCMP here believe Nanaimo's cat burglar has finally been caught. In Niagara Falls, Ont., a juvenile has been charged with 45 breaking and enterings there. ## Cougar Caught Napping Will Never Wake Up

Ships Load For Britain

COWICHAN BAY — Ships loading here in the past two weeks took on 458,000 board feet of lumber, 244 tons of plywood and 1,000 squares of shingles for Manchester, England.

On Feb. 19 the Ss. Temple Lane loaded 1,188,724 board feet of lumber, left for the mainland and returned Friday to pick up another 183,000 board feet plus 100 squares of shingles and 35 tons of plywood. She sailed for the U.K. Friday night.

COURTENAY — A 175-pound male cougar was caught napping and got himself pole-axed to death just outside Courtenay Friday morning.

Bennie Bridges was walking through a field with his dogs when he spotted a cougar curled up fast asleep near a fence. Nearby was the remains of a deer on which the cougar had breakfasted and another buck, dead but not eaten, was lying nearby.

DILEMMA — Mr. Bridges faced a dilemma. He had no gun and if he left too rapidly and woke the beast he could well be its lunch.

Fortunately he was carrying a large thick steel pole and this was what he used to kill the big cat. One blow did the trick.

Grant Change Sought

MLA Cites Butane

Gas Rate Equalization Urged

Victoria's Social Credit MLA Donald Smith complained in the legislature Friday that Vancouver Island users of B.C. Hydro's butane gas are paying 50 per cent more for this fuel than people on the mainland.

He told the House that municipalities benefited from equalization of assessment, that rural residents benefited from equalization of electrical rates and that it is time for gas rates to be equalized between the Island and the mainland.

Mr. Smith suggested the premier should ask Hydro officials to consider this problem, when he presents a request for lower natural gas rates during Hydro directors' meeting in Vancouver March 21.

Mr. Smith also asked the government to consider making the homeowner grant apply to persons who own and live in duplexes.

The premier advised him he should bring this item up when the homeowner grant vote comes before the House at a later date.

The Victoria MLA said that, at the present time, persons who buy lifetime apartment suites are eligible for the grants.

He also pointed out that if two families who jointly own and occupy a duplex want to take the trouble of forming under the Companies Act, at a legal cost of about $350 each, each family then becomes eligible for the grant.

Mr. Smith said outside the legislature it is a shame that people have to go to so much trouble and expense to obtain the grant. He believes legislation should be amended to make them eligible for the grant.

Duncan Council Told

Future of Recreation Hangs on Bylaw Vote

By KLAUS MUENTER

NORTH COWICHAN — The March 19 vote on the $700,000 composite recreation bylaw in the North Cowichan municipality will be crucial for the future of recreation in the area, city of Duncan representatives were told by North Cowichan Council members at a joint meeting Friday night.

The meeting had been asked for by the city to obtain details on the forthcoming bylaw as it might become North Cowichan's partner in future recreation development.

ARENA, CENTRE

The $700,000 bylaw will provide for a $300,000 arena, at Fuller's Lake, a $300,000 sports centre near Duncan, plus $100,000 towards a proposed swimming pool.

City officials were told Duncan has nothing to lose by giving its moral support to the passing of the bylaw because North Cowichan has committed itself to a $300,000 share towards a sports centre in the south.

GIVES WARNING

Reeve Donald Morton warned if the bylaw were overwhelmingly defeated by one area in the municipality it would become necessary to arrange for another bylaw which would be beneficial only to one area.

North Cowichan Recreation Commissioner Jack Gallagher said that in order to serve all the people in the municipality two arenas would have to be built for geographical reasons.

CITY CONCERNED

Mayor Jack Dobson said, "The proposal for an arena at Fuller's Lake is none of Duncan's business," but the city is concerned about the proposal to have a sports centre built near Duncan. He wondered if two arenas could be supported in this area.

He also wanted to know if the municipality would still contribute $300,000 and whether there would be any delay for a sports centre in the south if the Fuller's Lake arena went into the hole financially.

NO DELAY

Reeve Morton replied there will be no delay "because we will have an arena built elsewhere."

Councillor Dennis Hogan said, "We will accept the responsibility to look after the arena in the north and still will help to build one in the south."

Regional Set-Up Will Await Area Request

COBBLE HILL — The government has no intention of forming anyone into a regional district until they are ready and ask for it, J. D. Baird, assistant deputy minister of municipalities told a taxpayer at a meeting here.

"How will we know when we are ready for it?" he was asked. "We know you are ready for it now, but you don't," Mr. Baird said.

KEYNOTE

Co-ordination for the administration of services to the people was the keynote of his explanation of regional districts, summing up the night school course concluded at George Bonner High School.

Before a regional district can be set up, the boundaries must be agreed upon by the people. Mr. Baird said. Then a representative group is elected to form a regional planning board.

FIVE-YEAR PLAN

The government allows $5,000 annually for the administrative services of the board. It must produce a five-year plan and a budget. No debt can be incurred unless the plan extends over five years.

Mr. Baird defined a regional plan as a general scheme without detail for the projected uses of land in a regional district.

This could include highways, industrial or institutional use in urban areas and agricultural or tree farming as examples in rural districts.

Mr. Baird thought if a regional district had a very good plan for a new road, at least the government would take a good look at it.

There would be no change in the administration of highways in a regional district, he said, answering a question from Reeve Don Morton of North Cowichan.

A board has no authority within municipal boundaries. It can assist with a scheme by agreement.

SERVE NOTICE

A regional board has to serve notice to all people concerned if it intends to borrow money to finance a project.

A big advantage in forming a regional district would be that all district bodies with borrowing powers, would know by the five-year budget what sums would be needed throughout the whole area, Mr. Baird said.

He said he would like to see water works, sewers and pollution control as absolutely essential services which the government should have the power to insist be carried out.

WATER NEEDED

As an example he cited an interior centre where a good water supply was needed.

Twice the referendum was turned down by the people. When two babies died of hepatitis the next vote passed 90 per cent.

The city of Trail has requested the recently-formed South Kootenay regional district planning board to provide ambulance service for the benefit of the whole area.

EXAMPLES

The minister gave other examples of the work that could be accomplished by a regional district board.

"If we had had regional districts 50 years ago, we would not have 50 or more different improvement districts to deal with today," he said.

ALL INVITED

Mr. Baird was thanked by Mrs. Veronica Lloyd and by George Whittaker, representing South Cowichan taxpayers, who invited all present at the course to attend a taxpayers' meeting at Cobble Hill March 14.

Scandals of Past Rattle House

By RON COLLISTER
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—The secrets of 20 years of security scandals almost fell into the lap of Parliament by accident in a furious debate on the Spencer spy-suspect case Friday.

Justice Minister Lucien Cardin tore into Tory leader John Diefenbaker over his handling of the "Monseigneur case."

Miss Munsinger, the story goes, was a clerk at a Communist embassy. She was deported after some compromising pictures, involving her and the minister, came to light. The case was allowed to die because only sex, and not security, was involved.

While the Liberals indicate they are sitting on security secrets of the Tory era, the Tories indicate they have enough on the Liberals, during their pre-1957 period of power.

In the Commons, Tory leader Diefenbaker said if there was to be a full and complete investigation of security in Canada, it should go back to 1944.

"Yes, I want to cover that period," he said. "I want to see it fully investigated."

DEATH TOLL 124 IN BOAC CRASH

GOTEMBA, Japan (AP)—A British Overseas Airways Boeing 707 jetliner slammed into the slopes below Mount Fuji today, killing all 124 aboard the plane, Japanese military sources said.

A Japanese self defence force training school located six miles from the crash site said there were no survivors.

The jetliner left Tokyo with 113 passengers and a crew of 11 bound for Hong Kong and on to London, BOAC officials in Tokyo said.

The BOAC officials, however, declined to confirm that it was their plane that was down.

RIPPED CLOTHING
Police working up the brushy slopes about six miles below the crater of the nearby sacred mountain—70 miles southwest of Tokyo—said they found ripped clothing bearing the BOAC insignia.

The wreckage was still burning more than two hours after the crash.

Aerial views showed the main wreckage lying several hundred yards below the top of a rounded, rolling ridge line.

Recognition For Ghana

By REUTERS

Britain and the United States recognized Friday the new regime in Ghana, which was facing growing hostility from a group of African states backing deposed president Kwame Nkrumah.

London and Washington announcements of recognition brought to 14 the number of states which have recognized the military leaders who overthrew Nkrumah eight days ago. Ghana is a former British colony.

Accra, meanwhile, sent a sharp protest to Guinea, staunchest of Nkrumah's allies, claiming the Ghanaian embassy staff in the capital, Conakry, had been placed under house arrest.

Two Men Swap Cancer Tissue

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Cancerous tissue from two men threatened with early death by a rare bone malignancy was traded Friday. The exchange, they hoped, might extend their lives.

Tissue from the right lung of Robert F. Allen, 28, and from the left collarbone area of Harry T. Griffith, 63, was imbedded in each other's thigh.

The experimental surgery, performed by Dr. Sigmund H. Nadler at Roswell Park Memorial Institute, was completed in less than two hours.

CP Jet Crash Kills 64

TOKYO (CP-AP)—A Canadian Pacific Airlines jetliner groping for a landing in fog hit the approach lights at Tokyo's International Airport Friday night and smashed down in flames, killing 64 persons, many of them Canadian residents.

The eight survivors, three of them with Canadian addresses, were reported out of danger early today.

At least 21 Canadian residents were listed aboard the flight and most of them were presumed killed.

CREW DEAD

The crew was among those confirmed killed. So was the off-duty stewardess, identified as Rebecca Yue-chien Chao of Hong Kong.

Ripping out 15 of the beacon towers jutting out of Tokyo bay on the approach to the runway, the giant DC-8 hit a breakwater wall at the edge of the runway and then tore down the runway, scattering wreckage for nearly a mile before coming to a halt.

VANCOUVER PILOT
The $6,000,000, four-engine plane, bound from Hong Kong for Vancouver and South America, was under the command of Capt. Cecil N. McNeal, 37, of Vancouver.

Known to have survived are Freda Yeake, 30, of Edmonton and Vancouver; Bernard James Redisky, 23, Kimberley, B.C., and Mrs. Sau Jen Chung, whose Canadian address was not immediately known.

Miss Yeake, an Air Canada sales agent, was taken to hospital with head, arm and leg injuries. Although seriously hurt, she was conscious.

Man Charged LBJ's Life Threatened

By NORMAN RUNNION

It was shortly after 8 a.m. Friday that the Washington-bound train bearing Oswald H. Pick, 27, of Clifton, N.J., rolled into Philadelphia's 30th Street station.

Waiting for Pick on the station platform were some 60 agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, which two and one-half years ago had become chillingly familiar with a 24-year-old man named Lee Harvey Oswald.

The charge against Pick: threatening to assassinate President Lyndon B. Johnson.

FRENZY
Behind the arrest lay two frenzied hours of drama that began with a phone call to FBI headquarters in Washington at 5:45 a.m. EST.

The call came from New York. The voice on the other end said he was heading to Washington to assassinate a "high government official." Then he hung up.

As an FBI agent said later in New York: "We launched an immediate and intensive investigation."

The next call came 45 minutes later—at 6 a.m. EST. This

Queer Quirk of Fate Kills Victoria Woman

By DOROTHY WROTONSKI

One of Victoria's most dynamic personalities, Mrs. H. C. MacDonald lost her life in the shocking CPA air crash at fog-bound Tokyo airport Friday.

Only by a queer quirk of fate was Norma MacDonald on the fateful plane.

On a trip, buying for her newly established arts and crafts centre in the remodelled Century Inn, Mrs. MacDonald had been in London, Moscow, Peking and Hong Kong.

Her plans were to go to Korea from Hong Kong. But her visa hadn't come through to Hong Kong as she had expected.

A cable to her sister, Miss Frances Jordan, told of her sudden change of plans and that she would be arriving home Friday afternoon instead of next Tuesday.

Norma MacDonald became widely known in Victoria during her 20 years of living here. She purchased the Oak Bay Beach Hotel from the late Maj. William Merston in 1946 and with members of her family operated the hotel until selling it three years ago.

It was during this time she became president of the International Hotel Association and in this capacity circled the globe several times.

What is not so well known about Norma MacDonald is her liberal sponsoring of the arts.

She was a benefactor helping many young people on their way. Norma married H. C. MacDonald and came from Winnipeg to Vancouver where her husband was in real estate. They moved to Seattle where they started in the hotel business. Mr. MacDonald died there.

Firing Inquiry Promised

Pearson Calls Spy Suspect

By RON COLLISTER

OTTAWA—Prime Minister Pearson Friday night phoned an alleged spy and staged a historic retreat on a judicial inquiry into his dismissal from the civil service.

Justice Minister Cardin sat bowed and dejected as Mr. Pearson overruled his earlier refusal to allow an inquiry in the case of spy-suspect Victor Spencer.

Mr. Pearson's statement said the inquiry, to be conducted in camera by a judge, probably in Vancouver, would deal with the "nature of dismissal and superannuation benefits."

MUCH WIDER

Spencer, 37, was fired from his job in the Vancouver post office, without pension, for his part in a case that saw the expulsion of two Soviet diplomats last year.

A spokesman for Mr. Pearson said the judge would not examine the security aspects of the case.

However, there are already rumours that the Opposition will push for a much wider inquiry.

MORE FIREWORKS

Former Tory justice minister David Fulton said an inquiry should establish if there was enough evidence to fire Spencer.

"How can the inquiry avoid taking that question into consideration?" He asked.

More fireworks are expected when the debate on the justice estimates resumes Monday March 7.

The government is already feeling the pinch of a financial crisis because, from March 7, it has had no authority for spending and is trying to pay bills out of carryover money.

"REAL TROUBLE"

Already, a few casual workers are not getting paid. "From Monday night, we will be in real trouble," said government House leader George McRae.

Earlier, in the Commons, Mr. Pearson announced that he would phone Spencer in Vancouver and verify a telegram he had sent to New Democrat David Lewis asking for an inquiry into his case.

Mr. Pearson invited Mr. Lewis to monitor the call, but Mr. Lewis declined.

LAWYERS LISTEN

The call lasted two and a half minutes, from the official residence at 24 Sussex Drive to a Vancouver law office, where Spencer was located.

Mr. Pearson was alone. With Spencer was his lawyer, Harry

Favreau Withdraws Perjury Charge Against Neilsen

By FRASER KELLY
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Privy council president Guy Favreau Friday accused Tory Erik Nielsen of "lying under oath" during the Dorion enquiry.

Under terrific pressure from Mr. Nielsen and the rest of the Opposition, the beleaguered former justice minister withdrew his words an hour later—but not until he was faced with backing them up or losing his seat.

The House tottered on the edge of complete chaos when the two great antagonists in the famous Dorion-Rivard affair locked horns in a bitter debate.

"UNEQUIVOCALLY"

At the end Mr. Favreau, who accused Mr. Nielsen of twice giving false evidence to Chief Justice Dorion, withdrew all his words "unequivocally."

The matter arose during a sharp exchange during the debate on the estimated expenditures of the justice department.

Mr. Nielsen interjected some reference to the Dorion probe—convened by the government to investigate allegations of bribery designed to get bail for narcotics king Lucien Rivard.

STUNG

Obviously stung by the mention of Rivard, Mr. Favreau jumped to his feet and stated Mr. Nielsen had "on two occasions said things that did not represent the truth."

Mr. Nielsen said Mr. Favreau had accused him of perjury and asked the former justice minister to withdraw his statement.

Mr. Favreau refused, and repeated his accusation. He suggested Mr. Nielsen turn the whole matter over to the Commons committee on privileges and elections.

RISK SEAT

Mr. Nielsen said the rules demanded that Mr. Favreau back up his statement or risk losing his seat. He was joined by several Conservative and New Democrat members.

Cardin Bucks Boss on Crime Probe

By FRASER KELLY

OTTAWA—Justice Minister Lucien Cardin told the Commons yesterday that a royal commission "is not the answer" to fighting organized crime in Canada.

His rejection of a super crime probe came just one day after prime minister indicated in the Commons the government was prepared to recommend to the provinces that one be set up.

Now if Prime Minister Pearson gives in to demands of Quebec Justice Minister Claude Wagner for a royal commission on crime it will be over the advice of his own federal justice minister.

Mr. Cardin made his statement in the middle of a detailed account of steps the government is taking to greatly stiffen bankruptcy laws and investigation.

"The problem of crime in Canada is so serious and difficult that it is not time for panic. It is not time to run in two or three directions at the same time."

"Perhaps the appointment of a royal commission would be one method to deal with it."

"The government has stated it will look into this matter, but my feeling is that this is not the time for panic."

"I think the attorneys general individually and collectively with the assistance of the federal government, are the people most knowledgeable and have the best position to deal with this great problem."

"The hon. gentlemen have asked for a royal commission, but I feel this is not the answer," he said.

Mr. Cardin described the current bankruptcy act as "very complicated, awkward and obsolete." Then he listed nine steps the government is taking to tighten it up.

Among these are revisions to greatly strengthen the powers of the superintendent of bankruptcy, who will have the power to call witnesses, obtain search warrants and seize documents.

Pearson Makes Call

Rankin, and Frank Collier, a lawyer hired by the government to represent it at the phone call. A spokesman for the prime minister later released this transcript of the phone call:

Spencer: It's Spencer speaking.

Mr. Pearson: Good evening, Mr. Spencer.

Spencer: Yes, I'm very pleased to hear you.

Your Good Health

Blood Problems May Cause Slight Dizziness

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: I am in my early 30s and for the last few months I have noticed that if I bend over to pick up something, or move my head fast I get dizzy and feel like I am going to pass out. This is especially true during my menstrual period. Could it be a brain tumor?—MRS. B.W.

Brain tumor, especially at your age, is quite unlikely—and anyway it would give entirely different symptoms.

You do need a physical examination, however, and at your age it would be logical to check blood pressure (suspecting lowness), to investigate whether your thyroid may be less active than normal, and to have a blood count because some anemia may have developed.

Examination covering these items in most cases provides the necessary clues for correcting the trouble in younger people. In older folks, the same causes may be at work, but middle ear trouble, high blood pressure causing dizziness, and some other difficulties may also warrant inquiry.

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband, 60, has diverticulosis, but not bad. I would like more information.

My husband has always been a big eater, and even likes "little extra meat" with his cake or pie. Also he wants mustard, vinegar and black pepper on his sandwiches.

I can't convince him that he should eliminate these from his food because they must be irritating. Or maybe I'm wrong.—J.W.

The items you mention shouldn't bother his diverticulum (which is what is irritated when you have diverticulosis). Rather, your husband will likely benefit much more by avoiding foods which leave a great deal of residue after having passed through the stomach and upper intestine—bran, nuts, corn and berries with seeds are the principal such items.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 29, and for the last year have been bothered by dry, chapped lips. I have never had this or any skin problem before. In the last couple of months it has become worse. I have tried petroleum jelly and chap sticks but they don't help. Is there anything else to do?—MISS K.B.

First of all, consider the possibility of being allergic to lipstick, or even toothpaste or a mouthwash if you use one. Such sensitivity is a lot more common than you may think—common enough so non-allergic lipsticks are available. Or just omit cosmetics entirely for a little while. Change toothpaste.

The second possibility: Do you smoke cigarettes? Or do you smoke a brand with some special type of tip? Just plain ordinary ones can irritate the lips.

If these simple but often effective methods don't help, see a dermatologist (skin specialist).

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it common for boys of 13 or 14 to have soft tumors of "lumps" in the stomach and between the elbow and armpit. The doctor said they weren't anything to be alarmed about. Will you explain?—MRS. J.M.

From your description and the doctor's remark, they sound as though they might be small lymph nodes—lymph glands which have swollen because of fighting off infection.

If that's it, they usually get smaller; if they persist or get larger, then further investigation (including blood count and chest X-ray) would be advisable.

Scandals of Past Rattle Commons

the Senate internal security committee in Washington.

The security threat-swapping day gave Parliament one of its wildest days since the turbulent period of 1956.

Mr. Diefenbaker admitted: "I haven't seen anything like it since 1956."

But he was admitting nothing else.

Asked about the Munster case, he replied: "Ask Cardin. I told them in the Commons to produce whatever they had. And they produced nothing."

Newsman called Mr. Cardin to explain his reference to the case.

"Ask Diefenbaker. He has the information," he replied.

PULLED UP

Both men, sworn to secrecy like all cabinet ministers past and present, had apparently pulled themselves up before any major indiscretion.

For several days, government sources have been hinting that they had some "juicy" cases of the Diefenbaker period and might disclose one or two if the Tories didn't allow the justice estimates to go through.

Mr. Cardin was reported to have had a reference to the case in a speech prepared for delivery two days earlier, but left it out at the last minute.

PRESS PRIMED

The tactic appeared to be to get the press to disclose a case that a minister, under oath, couldn't do directly.

The press was primed to do the job, expecting a Cardin disclosure, and, sure enough, it came—just a reference to the "Monsieur case" and implications that Mr. Diefenbaker had not behaved properly over it.

All the wispy rumors of the years were put together and it made a sensational story.

Dave Fulton, the man who was Tory justice minister in 1961, at the time of the case, called it a "conspiracy" by the government to get the case into the open.

Cardin, he said, had resorted to a vicious and public threat of intimidation, an attempt to silence criticism by a threat of intimidation bordering on blackmail.

He deplored the conduct of a justice minister who would say: "You be quiet or I will tell about the Monsieur case." That, he said, was what the minister had said.

That approach to blackmail would not work.

TAKE NOTE

Mr. Fulton called on Prime Minister Pearson to take note of Cardin's conduct.

"I personally know that was not devised by the minister of justice alone."

"It was applauded by the prime minister," snapped Mr. Diefenbaker.

"There were others associated with him in this," Mr. Fulton pressed on.

"PRODUCE DETAILS"

"An attempt was made publicly in the House to still criticism by the threat of intimidation."

Mr. Fulton backed his leader, Mr. Diefenbaker, in challenging Mr. Cardin to "go ahead" and tell what he knew.

"Produce the details," he challenged, "if you think there is anything that should be exposed."

"And you will be answered, because there is nothing here which, from the point of view of any improper conduct on our part, we wish to hide."

Outside the Commons, Mr. Fulton again declined to discuss the details of the case and claimed he could not recognize the details that newsmen gave him.

Former Trade Minister George Hees said he had never heard about the case and did not know the minister reportedly involved.

"He must have been a romantic type," he chuckled.

In the Commons, Mr. Cardin was greeted with Tory shouts of "Smear," "Threats," "Go on," as he launched his attack on the Tory leader's record on security while he was prime minister.

SCORCHED

Mr. Cardin had been scorched by Mr. Diefenbaker in the justice department estimates, still unpassed, over the Spencer case.

Bolling with rage, he glared at Diefenbaker and said:

"I can tell the right honorable gentleman that of all the members of the House, he, and I repeat he, is the very last person who can afford to give advice on the handling of security cases."

HEAR, HEAR!

Tories gasped and Liberals shouted, "Hear, hear!"

"And I'm not kidding," the incensed Mr. Cardin went on.

Mr. Diefenbaker pointed out that Mr. Pearson was applauding what Mr. Cardin was saying. "I want that on the record," he said.

Mr. Cardin: "I understand the right honorable gentleman said he wants that on the record. Would he want me to go on, to give more?"

"Go on," Tories and Liberals shouted.

"NOT WORRIED"

"Very well," said Cardin. "I want the right honorable gentleman to give the House his participation in the Monsieur case when he was prime minister."

Mr. Diefenbaker snorted that one of Cardin's false threats meant anything. "Now, go to it," he urged him.

"They are not false threats," said Cardin.

Mr. Cardin couldn't make himself heard and Tory Robert Muir was roaring: "Speak up or shut up."

"I have spoken," Cardin replied. "Let the right honorable gentleman speak. I think I have said all I have to say on the Spencer case."

Mr. Diefenbaker snorted that one of Cardin's false threats meant anything. "Now, go to it," he urged him.

"They are not false threats," said Cardin.
